DAYBREAK SALUTES OPEN CELEBRATION OF PERRY VICTORY

Thousands Join In Festivities That Also Mark Century of Peace Between English Speaking Nations

(By Associated Press.)

PUT-IN-BAY, O., July 4.—The Perry Centennial celebration commemorating Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry's victory over the British on Lake Erie, the campaign of General William Henry Harrison and the one hundred years of peace that will have ensued between the English speaking nations since the signing of the Treaty of Ghent on December 24, 1814, was formally opened here today. It will continue until October 5, with celebrations at Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo, Erie, Penn., and other lake ports and Louisville, Ky.

The Centennial era began at daybreak with a salute of one hundred guns. At 10 o'clock, a. m., the program called for decoration by school children of the graves of the American and British officers killed in the battle of Lake Erie. Simple religious services with music by a military and concert band and prayer by Rev. Rev. J. M. Forbes, characterized this ceremony.

The cornerstone of the magnificent Perry Memorial was laid under the auspices of the Ohio Grand Lodge of Masons. The officers of the Grand lodge participated in this ceremony in conjunction with the Ohio commissioners and the Inter-State board of the Perry Victory Centennial commissioners.

Following this ceremony, the oratorical program of the day was carried out in the large coliseum at Put-in-Bay, which was taxed to its full capacity of 4,000 people. John H. Clarke, of Cleveland, president of the Ohio commission, formally presented the memorial reservation to Commodore George R. Wetherington, president-general of the interstate board. The interstate board will complete the memorial, when it will be transferred by them to the national government. Colonel Henry Watterson of Louisville, Ky. has been selected to deliver and address, and the oration of the day was delivered by former Senator John M. Whitehead, of the Wisconsin commission.

A display of fireworks with fire projects and numerous elaborate set pieces was on the program for the evening. Following this, a banquet given by the Perry Centennial commissioners in honor of Ohio state official members of the legislature, supreme court, the Masonic fraternity, and other guests, had been planned. President John H. Clarke will act as toastmaster and responses will be made by Hugh L. Nichols, lieutenant and personal representative of Governor Cox of Ohio. Representative John Cowan, for the house of representatives, State Senator D. F. Mooney, for the Ohio senate. Most Wonderful Grand Master E. S. Griffiths, for the Ohio Grand Lodge of Masons, General J. Warren Keifer, of the United States Centennial commissioners, Timothy S. Hogan, Attorney-General of Ohio J. H. Needhamder, architect of the memorial, A. H. Sisson, treasurer-general of the interstate centennial board, and Wester F. Huntington, secretary-general of the interstate centennial board.

MEMORIAL'S CORNERSTONE.

The principal feature of the day's celebration was, of course, the laying of the cornerstone of the memorial which is to be the permanent monument to Perry's victory. When completed, the memorial will consist of a Doric column of granite 30 feet high and forty-five feet in diameter surmounted by a spectator's gallery reached by elevators, above which will tower an immense tripod holding a beacon light flashing its rays heavenward, and visible for miles over Lake Erie. The column will stand in the center of a plaza 788 feet long and 467 feet wide, which will rise in a gradual ascent from the water's edge, with Put-in-Bay on the

GREEKS CONQUERORS OVER BULGARIANS IN MANY ENGAGEMENTS

Constantine's Troops Drive Bulgarian Soldiers Before Them Toward the North and the East

SEVERE FIGHTING ALL ALONG THE BATTLE LINE

Bulgars Flee, Panic Stricken at Ghevgheli, and Many Jump Into River Vardar and Are Drowned

(By Associated Press.)

SALONIKI, July 4.—Since their victory over the Bulgarians at Kilkish the Greek troops have been successful in a number of smaller engagements in which the fighting was very severe. They are driving the Bulgarians before them toward the north, and the east.

During the fight which resulted in the occupation of Ghevgheli by the Greeks, the Bulgarians became panic stricken and hundreds of them jumped into the river Vardar and were drowned.

The railroad between Ghevgheli and Saloniki by way of Karasuli has been restored and is in operation.

About 2,000 wounded Greek soldiers arrived today in Saloniki furnishing evidence of the heavy fighting which has taken place.

No news has reached here as to the result of the battle which began yesterday between the Greeks and the Bulgarians, north of Kilkish, but it is known that the Greeks were successful in another fight at Matsukovo, in which the Bulgarians suffered heavily.

The Greek authorities complain that the Bulgarians have looted some Greek villages and have tortured the inhabitants who will not sign a petition asking the Bulgarians to continue their occupation of the district.

Servians Are Routed by Bulgarians, Greeks Suffer

TEMPERATURE 92 HERE; TERRIFIC HEAT PREVAILS

Weather Bureau Took Holiday but Temperature Didn't, Death at Athens

The youth of the city were not the only ones that shot fireworks on the glorious Fourth. Old Sol was there with the warmest bunch of blazers that swept the city, a sweltering heat that sent the mercury to 92 before noon, and promised a temperature during the afternoon that would break all records for the summer.

The weather bureau cosed for a half-holiday, but before the last clerk left at 12 o'clock, he reported a temperature of 92 degrees registered by the thermometer on top of the Empire building.

It was believed that the mercury would pass the 95 mark during the day, unless the Fourth maintained the precedent set by former ones, a drenching thunder shower during the afternoon.

In the streets the heat was intense. Calculation showed that it was much hotter there by several degrees than the official thermometer fourteen stories above, where cool breezes played from morn till night. Shortly after noon a flock of clouds drifted over the city, threatening to some slight extent the terrific heat.

The fourth has ever been one of the hottest days in the year. The hottest fourth on record was in 1902, when the mercury reached 97 degrees, but three degrees lower than the century mark, the highest ever reached in Atlanta.

"Free Kindergartens Would Rob Georgia's Motherhood," Writes Mrs. W. E. Whitehead

Club Women Would Force State to Rock Babies to Sleep, and Leave Mothers Teaching Youth Gentle Art of Turkey Trotting, She Says

Editor The Journal:

Wanted—A job by the Mothers of Georgia. Free kindergartens have robbed us of our occupation, and, lest, in our enforced idleness, we get into mischief, we beg some of the dear club women to find us employment at dealing bridge, serving punch, or teaching the callow youth of Georgia the gentle art of turkey trotting.

This, Mr. Editor, will be the kind of "want ad" with which your valuable columns will be filled in the near future, if the bill pending in the legislature, fathered, or rather "mothered" by some over-zealous club women, suffering from what might be termed philanthropic myopia, should be passed.

With all due respect to the opinions, from their point of view, of my sister club members, I, as an experienced teacher, from the kindergarten through the eighth grade of the common schools, enter my protest against saddling on the already overtaxed treasury of Georgia any useless expense.

If Georgia can devise any means whereby her all too meager educational appropriation may be increased let her by all means apply it to the betterment of her recently established high school system. In order that, after completing the four-year course, our boys and girls may at the age of eighteen, find themselves equipped either to enter college, to prepare for the professions, or to at once take up their life work as producers or home-makers, as the case may be.

"MISAPPLIED PHILANTHROPY."

I have no patience with the misapplied philanthropy (?) of some few "progressive spirites," who would force the state to rock the babies to sleep at night and furnish free castoria with a patent medicine dropper and gold spoon thrown in.

Watch your pendulum, my dear sisters, else it will swing too far! Let us not stultify ourselves by being too grasping, and in clutching for the shadows, the non-essentials, let us not risk losing the more valuable substance.

Let us, by all means, "stand pat" for compulsory education and child labor reform, which go hand in hand, for the bill for raising the age of consent, and the eugenic marriage law, which are the very bulwarks of the moral and physical salvation of our people; but let us not try to dodge our duty as women and mothers, by asking the state to take charge of our little ones before they have learned to walk upright or speak their mother tongue. Shame to the woman of Georgia, who would "farm out" her little ones for any reason whatever!

I have every reason to believe that the mothers of Georgia, as a class, do

LEE'S LAWYER EXPECTS DELAY IN FRANK CASE

State Certain to Fight Chappell's Effort to Secure Release of Watchman

Bernard L. Chappell, attorney for Newt Lee, the negro night watchman, who found the body of Mary Phagan in the National Pencil factory basement, declares that Saturday he will bring habeas corpus proceedings to secure the release of his client.

According to the attorney, the negro is being held on the recommendation of the coroner's jury, which concluded its inquest before James Conley figured in the case. The grand jury has failed to act on Lee's case, and Attorney Chappell says that he is going to make efforts to secure the negro's release.

When the habeas corpus proceedings are commenced the state is certain to make a fight to prevent the negro's release from the Tower on the ground that he is a material witness.

Attorney Chappell states that he has decided to bring the habeas corpus proceedings because he does not believe that the case of Leo M. Frank will actually come to trial on July 28, when it has been set by Judge L. S. Roan, of the superior court.

There are many ways in which such a case may be postponed indefinitely, Lee's attorney says, and he is not going to allow his client to stay in jail for an indefinite period if he can help it.

As a result, he says he is fully determined to take the legal steps Saturday to secure the negro's release.

SCHOOL BOOK REFORM CERTAIN TO PROVOKE LEGISLATIVE CLASH

Opposition to Plan for State Supervision of Printing Being Displayed by Agents of the "Book Trust"

Advocates of cheaper school books for Georgia will begin active warfare in the house next week in behalf of their scheme for state supervision of the printing and editing of the text books used in the state's elementary schools.

A resolution already introduced in the house by Representative McCrory, providing for an inter-session investigating conditions, is certain to be opposed in the committee on education, where the first clash is to occur.

The plan proposed that the state take over the editing of its own readers, providing copyrights, plates and electrotypes and publishing the Georgia readers on the basis of competitive bids, is meeting with enthusiasm in the legislature on one side and opposition on the part of the American Book company and some of the school authorities on the other.

A battle royal, such as always occurs when a school book controversy is raised, is promised and no doubt will develop in the intensity as the legislative session continues.

Two years ago, when the legislature sought to pass the present school law providing a state board of education in fact as well as in name, agents of a book company were busy in both the house and senate attempting, with the knives of amendment, to emasculate the bill.

CONTRACT SOON OUT.

This fall the contract between the state and the American Bookcompany for the Lee readers, the books now used in the elementary schools, expires and the state will face the alternative of renewing the contract on the old basis of taking over the supervision of it the printing of its text books.

That Representative McCrory by a consistent campaign of publicity among members of the general assembly before and since the convening of the 1913-1914 legislature has stirred up real support of his plan can not be doubted. Numerous legislators are already committed to the proposition of giving the plan a fair trial, showing at least to the extent of appointing a joint legislative committee to look deeply into the school book situation.

Whether or not Representative McCrory's bill to take over the printing of school books will receive a favorable report from the educational committee of the house on the first hearing is a much mooted question, for the book company advocates, who are said to be numerous, expect to fight this bill desperately.

Representative McCrory is authority for the statement that his plan, modeled largely after the one in vogue in Ontario, where school books, superior to those used in Georgia, are being sold much cheaper, will save the people of Georgia something like $1,000,000 in the course of ten years.

These figures he arrives at from figures of the Ontario minister of education on the saving effected the people of Ontario since the government took over the printing of school books.

According to a report of Canadian minister the people of Ontario have been saved $2,500,000 in ten years under the government's latest contract, but books were sold in Ontario under former plan of partial supervision more cheaply than they are now sold in Georgia by the book companies.

Aviator Fatally Hurt In Avoiding a Crowd

Fear of plowing through the crowd that gathered about the landing place caused the accident.

URGES VETERANS TO DON HARNESS OF THE PRESENT

Serve Fellow Men in Quiet Counsel Where the Blare of Trumpets Is Neither Heard nor Heeded Is Message

(By Associated Press.)

GETTYSBURG, July 4.—The train bearing President Wilson arrived at the station in the town of Gettysburg at 11 o'clock. The president was escorted to an automobile and accompanied by Governor Tener, passed through the town to the Emmittsburg road, then proceeded to the camp.

The president spoke to a crowd estimated at 10,000. Thousands of veterans were in their uniforms of gray or blue, but many in the crowd were Pennsylvanians from Gettysburg and nearby towns. The president's speech was short and he was frequently interrupted by cheers. President Wilson left by special train shortly before noon for the north.

ADDRESS OF PRESIDENT.

Friends and Fellow Citizens: I need not tell you what the battle of Gettysburg meant. These gallant men in blue and gray sit about us here. Many of them have met here upon this ground in grim and deadly struggle. Upon these famous fields and hillsides their comrades died about them. In their presence it were an impertinence to discourse upon how the battle went, how it ended, what it signified! But 50 years have gone by since then, and I crave the privilege of speaking to you for a few minutes of what those 50 years have meant.

What have they meant? They have meant peace and union and vigor, and the maturity and might of a great nation. How wholesome and healing the peace has been! We have found one another again as brothers and comrades in arms, enemies no longer, generous friends rather, our battles long past, the quarrel forgotten—except that we shall not forget the splendid valour, the manly devotion of the men then arrayed against one another, now grasping hands and smiling into each other's eyes. How complete the union has become and how dear to all of us, how unquestioned, how benign and majestic, as state after state has been added to this our great family of free men! How handsome the vigor, the maturity, the might of the great nation we love with undivided hearts; how full of large and confident promise that a life will be wrought out that will crown its strength with gracious justice and with a happy welfare that will touch all alike with deep contentment! We are debtors to those crowded 50 years; they have made us heirs to a mighty heritage.

But do we deem the nation complete and finished? These venerable men crowding here to this famous field have set us a great example of devotion and utter sacrifice. They were willing to die that the people might live. But their task is done. Their day is turned into evening. They look to us to perfect what they established. Their work is handed on to us, to be done in another way, but not in another spirit.

ATLANTA MANUFACTURERS ORGANIZE FOR EXHIBIT

Permanent Display of "Made-in-Atlanta" Goods Is Definitely Assured

A permanent exhibit of manufactures produced in Atlanta and Fulton county to be shown in their own building within the near future was the plan unanimously decided upon Thursday night, when Atlanta manufacturers, the guests at a banquet tendered by the chamber of commerce at the Hotel Ansley, formally organized a manufacturers' association.

Over 100 of Atlanta's most progressive citizens were present, representing the commercial, business and creative life of the city. President Wilmer L. Moore, of the chamber of commerce, presided, and in his remarks introducing Brooks Morgan, chairman of the committee on a permanent manufacturers' exhibit, stressed the importance of such an undertaking and pleaded with those present to lend their best efforts toward accomplishing that end. Mr. Moore pointed out the unqualified success that other cities had met through a permanent exhibit of their home products, citing instances where towns smaller than Atlanta owned their own building and boasted of a show that brought into the coffers of their manufactories thousands of dollars a year more than had been made before.

Mr. Morgan also told of the work that had been done elsewhere and expressed the belief that Atlanta would profit from such an undertaking to an extent that could not be realized at the present time. He said that he believed Atlanta-made goods should be shown Atlantians, that the people right here might learn, as well as those outside, what could be bought without leaving Fulton county.

J. K. ORR SPEAKS.

The great success of the exhibit of last year was told of by J. K. Orr, of the J. K. Orr Shoe company, one of the leading spirits of the movement. He stated that space could be rented by each exhibitor at not more than 50 cents per foot a year. He declared that the first show had cost the exhibitors but 40 cents a foot and though the admission charged was but 10 cents, a dividend of 20 per cent had been paid to each of them after all expenses were taken out. Fully 50,000 people, he estimated, visited the show during the week it was open.

Chairman Morgan here called attention to the fact that the cost of putting on such an exhibit would approximate $22,500, and suggested that a rent scale of from $250 to $500 per booth for space be charged, according to the size of the exhibit. "We either can own or rent a building for this purpose," he said, "and have it in charge of a manager and the necessary number of clerks to take care of all visitors and prospective buyers. It shall be their duty to show the prospective customer the line he desires to see and if there is any uncertainty on any point it is only a matter of a minute to go to the phone and have a regular salesman come down and take care of the visitor. There the manufacturers could have their city office, and to those whose plants are on the outskirts of the city it would be a great advantage."

Rolling Jones declared that he considered it essential at this time that the merchants organize for the exhibition and put it on for mutual benefit.

"The day of carload lots has passed," he declared, "and I defy any man here to prove that such is not the case. With such an exhibit as we have under consideration, the merchant would come here for one thing, see all the other commodities that may be bought at the same time, and fill a car with mixed goods, thus benefiting not only one, but a great number of manufacturers."

DOBBS ON ADVERTISING.

The value of advertising through such a meeting was forcibly brought out by S. Dobbs, who declared it was time for the people of Atlanta to wake up and come to the realization of what they have right here.

"You can get just as good things here as elsewhere," he said, "and our money should be kept at home. Advertising is not simply the purchase of a few inches of space in a newspaper but it is an education to the people of what you have and has the tendency to create a want for things that are made here and such an exhibit as you gentlemen are contemplating seems to me one of the best ways to educate them. The merchant who fails to advertise is like the fellow who winks at a girl in the dark. He knows it but she doesn't."

The first move to start organization came when J. P. Stevens declared he wanted to be one of the first to subscribe to the fund for the building. From visiting other places where such exhibits were a permanent thing, he declared he had seen enough to convince him that Atlanta was in immediate need of the same exhibit. He called special attention to one city in the west that thirty years ago had almost the same population as Atlanta at that time and which now is exactly double Atlanta's 200,000, due, he declared, to the permanent exhibit of that city's home made.

PROMPT ORGANIZATION.

In the final address of the evening, Forrest Adair pleaded for an immediate movement to organize the association and put on the exhibit as a means of educating the people of Atlanta as to what they have in their own city. He told of three prominent men, whom he had just talked with a few minutes before coming into the banquet hall, who did not know that car wheels were made in Atlanta.

"The people of Atlanta are sadly in need of an education," said Mr. Adair. "They know the batting averages and who won the tennis tournament, or who the light weight boxing champion is, but they have no idea what Atlanta manufacturers are doing. I venture to say that not one in 500 citizens can come within seventy-five of naming the manufacturers here. We must teach them through an exhibit and the additional trade from Atlanta that is now going to the east and west, will alone pay for the pains and expense of the undertaking."

Following the decision to organize a manufacturers' association, President Moore named Brooks Morgan chairman of a committee of seven to look after the matter of organization and the establishment of a permanent exhibit. The matter of renting a suitable building or buying will be taken up later.

MANY ASK SPACE.

Following are the Atlanta companies that have signed up for space in the building to be procured and more are expected to enroll as the work goes on:

J. P. Stevens Manufacturing company, J. K. Orr Shoe company, F. E. Block company, Atlanta Stove Works, Foote & Davies company, L. & L. Manufacturing company, Byrd Printing company, Nunnally & McCrea Candy company, A. M. Robinson company, Southern Engraving company, Atlanta Paper company, Burnett, Bell & Klapper Furniture company, Van Winkle Motor Truck company, Norris, Inc., White Provision company, Willingham-Tift Lumber company, Empire Cotton Oil company, Mitchell Manufacturing company, Atlanta Gas Light company, All-Star Manufacturing company, Southern Spring Bed company and the Southern Saw and Machine Works.

MORE COMMISSIONS ARE ISSUED BY GOVERNOR

Governor Slaton Friday morning issued commissions for three additional members of his staff—Col. Jesse G. Perry, of Camilla; Col. John B. Way, of Hinesville, and Col. Ben J. Fowler, of Macon.

All three were on former Governor Brown's staff. Seventeen out of the thirty staff positions have been filled by Governor Slaton, and out of this number fourteen held similar commissions under Governor Brown.

ARE YOU CONSTIPATED? TAKE PODOLAX

No need to tell how constipation saps your energy, makes you sick, takes all the good out of life. At first you think it don't amount to much; before you know it, you're sick sure enough. Nothing tastes good; mouth hot and thick; head aches; everything is wrong. That's the time to go after the liver—and strong—but NOT with dynamite (calomel) or violent saline purgatives. Get a bottle of PODOLAX; take a little at bedtime tonight. It's the logical cure for lazy livers, because it stimulates every function of the liver, stomach and bowels to healthy activity; it "cleans house"—but most gently. You'll wake in the morning, refreshed by your good night's rest, smiling and ready for a fresh start. No more constipation, no more headache. There's a smile in every spoonful.

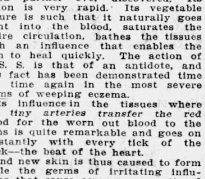
Fine Remedy For Eczema

Also for Salt Rheum, Tetter, Psoriasis, Lupus, and All Skin Afflictions.



Even a Microscope Won't Find a Blemish After S. S. S. Gets Through.

All skin troubles should be attacked from within by giving the blood circulation a good daily bath. This is accomplished with S. S. S., the best known and most highly recommended blood purifier ever discovered. Its action is very rapid. Its vegetable nature is such that it naturally goes right into the blood, saturates the entire circulation, bathes the tissues with an influence that enables the skin to heal quickly. The action of S. S. S. is that of an antidote, and this fact has been demonstrated time and time again in the most severe forms of weeping eczema.

Its influence in the tissues where the tiny arteries transfer the red blood for the worn out blood to the veins is quite remarkable and goes on constantly with every tick of the clock—the beat of the heart.

And new skin is thus caused to form while the germs of irritating influences that cause eczema are scattered and their harmful nature entirely suspended.

S. S. S. has a wonderful tonic influence in the blood because it contains no "dope." is not a "physic," is entirely free of any mineral drugs or any other drugs except the remarkable medicinal *effect of the pure vege*table products of which it is made.

Few people realize how harmful are many of the strong, crude ointments that used to be in favor before they learned that S. S. S. is safe, speedy and sure. Ask at any drug store for a bottle of S. S. S. Give it a good trial and you will soon see a decided improvement in any form of skin trouble. GOV. SLATON CELEBRATES WITH HARD DAY'S WORK

Things about the capitol were almost as quiet as the proverbial mouse Friday. With but few exceptions, the various departmental offices were closed, and the officials and clerks were enjoying the Fourth of July holiday.

Governor Slaton was on the job at 9 o'clock, however, and during the morning he held a number of conferences with heads of departments, engagements for which he made on Thursday. The governor took advantage of the holiday to clean up a considerable portion of his correspondence. Those with whom he discussed official business were Comptroller General W. A. Wright, Treasurer W. J. Speer, Agricultural Commissioner J. D. Price and Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash.

The legislature adjourned Thursday until Monday, so the capitol was all but deserted Friday.

YOU FEEL RIGHT ALL THE TIME IF YOU TAKE DODSON'S LIVER TONE

Don't Let Periodic Spells of Lazy Liver Ruin Your Temper and Spoil Your Work.

If your liver doesn't behave right all the time—if it sometimes stops working and you become bilious and "headachy"—don't take calomel but try Dodson's Liver Tone.

You are safe in taking Dodson's Liver Tone. It's a harmless, pleasant vegetable remedy that starts the liver without stirring up your whole system as calomel usually does. It is especially good for children who need a liver tonic once in a while but who should not be dosed with strong drugs.

Dodson's Liver Tone is sold by your druggist. Every druggist in town sells it and guarantees it. Your money back if you're not satisfied with a smile if it fails to do all we claim for it. 50 cts. at your druggists. (Advt.)

THE ATLANTA JOURNAL'S $7,000 BOOKLOVERS' CAMPAIGN.

The Plan and How You Can Enter

The Journal has published seventy-five pictures, each representing the title of one book.

Seven thousand dollars' worth of prizes will be given to those who can select the most correct titles.

Every contestant has the right to ten answers on each picture.

The Journal's new Official Catalogue contains all the titles used.

The Journal will issue a coupon with the right to ten answers only one of each picture. With the Answer Book The Journal will give you the first thirty-five prize pictures free.

The Answer Book will cost 50c at the office, 60c by mail. The Catalogue sells for 25c at the office, 35c by mail. Use the coupons in ordering. Extra pictures cost 2c each.

Subscribe for The Journal and get all the Campaign stories.

Enter your name, and get in the race for your share of the $7,000.

The Campaign is open to all residents of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

See complete prize list on another page.

WOULD YOU ACCEPT AN OFFER OF THIS KIND?

Suppose one of the best business men in your city should call you into his place this evening and tell you that he had some real pleasant work that he wanted you to do within the next fifteen days, and that if you did that work better than any one else could do it he would pay you $1,000, would you take a chance at it and accept his offer? We believe you would and that you would do your very best to earn that $1,000. The Journal will make you that offer right now in the great $7,000 Booklovers' Campaign. Most Journal readers know the plan, but for the benefit of our new subscribers we will briefly explain it and show you how it is possible to get $1,000 for fifteen days of real pleasant work.

The Journal has published seventy-five prize pictures, each representing the title of one book, with $7,000 worth of prizes to readers who will select the most correct titles to these pictures. And The Journal has prepared a Catalogue containing 400 book titles and in that Catalogue are all the titles used in this Campaign. "That ought to be easy," you say, but listen: Here is the best part of it:

In order to make it real easy for its readers The Journal has decided to give them the right to ten answers with each picture. Under the old plan it was necessary to have a picture and coupon with every answer you wished to send in. That plan was too expensive for most of The Journal readers, so the order was given to prepare an Answer Book with a page for each of the seventy-five prize pictures and a page for ten answers to each picture.

This Answer Book will only cost you 50 cents at the office or 60 cents by mail, and we will give you the first thirty-five pictures free with it. The other forty can be secured from us at two cents each.

If you want that $1,000 and we know you do, use the coupon on page two and get in today.

One pleasant feature about this great home game is that you will not be expected to solicit subscriptions or advertising or beg your friends to vote for you in order to win.

You can do all the work at home and the Reward for your efforts will be yours.

500 TELEPHONE GIRLS OPEN A SUMMER CAMP

"Camp Wyanoke" Established at Brown's Mill by the Southern Bell

Camp Wyanoke, the summer camp for the girls of the Bell Telephone company, will be formally opened Friday night with a reception in the pavilion, to be followed by an informal dance.

The camp is located at Brown's mill, two and a half miles inties from the car line i na secluded grove. It covers car line in a secluded grove. A sum close to $1,000 has been spent on equipment, which includes shower baths, a swimming pool, swings, hammocks, up-to-date tents, a piano and every other convenience.

Most of the girls will hie them to the green wood next Monday although a few will stay after Friday night's dance. It is estimated that about 500 girls will enjoy the camp until it breaks up in the fall. The camp equipment is free although the girls at their own request pool their funds for the running expenses.

Miss Cathryn C. Tatum is in charge of the camp assisted by the chief operators Mrs. Betty Mitchell, Miss Ada Moor, Miss Alice Means, Miss Estelle Rutledge and R. E. Robinson. The camp matron will be Mrs. Mattie Kirkpatrick, of Decatur, Ga.

WANTS SURVEY BY CITY OF RAILROAD TRACKAGE

Councilman Hall Has Plan to Raise Tax Assessments—To Reorganize Tax Office

Councilman Orville H. Hall, a memoer of the tax committee of general council, has prepared a resolution appropriating $500 to defray the expenses of a survey of all the railroad trackage in Atlanta, with a view of making new tax assessments thereon, and will introduce the resolution in council at the next meeting.

The assessments, when made, will not be official or binding, but are expected to have weight with the state comptroller general, W. A. Wright, who xefix the assessments on all corporations.

It is said there has not been a survey of railroad trackage in Atlanta for twenty years, and that consequently the city is getting nothing like a proper tax revenue from this source. The new survey is expected to result in an increase of at least $500,000.

The tax committee is now working on a plan to reorganize the city tax office. Part of the committee favor making it one department, under the direction of the tax committee, and the others favor making two departments. Either change will involve a charter amendment.

The terms of Tax Assessors Harrison and Malone expire net Monday, and they expect to be re-elected without opposition. They are elected by council, upon the nomination of the tax committee.

ATLANTA SCOTS DANCE TO "SKIRL" OF BAGPIPE

Burns Cottage Scene of Great Celebration in Observance of July Fourth

The members of the Scottish Association of Atlanta gathered at the Burns cottage Friday to celebrate the Fourth by a picnic and games.

The occasion was the second annual picnic of the association and the Scots of Atlanta commenced early in the day to gather around the pretty little building dedicated to the famous bard.

Of course the basket lunch must not be passed by without comment, but the feature of the celebration proved to be the "games;" a series of track events, which would have startled an intercollegiate meet.

The "skirl" of the bagpipe greeted the winner of each game. The judges were Dr. John Osman and A. Cruickshank, who kept peace between Highlanders and the Lowlanders.

A. A. Craig was the announcer and the master of ceremonies; the manager of sports and games was Alex Strachan, and the starters were George Hunter and Andy McElroy.

There were games for all, for boys and girls under fourteen years, for single ladies, for married ladies, for men over forty, and for smokers only. And not to be forgotten were races for grandmothers and grandfathers. And, of course, there was the wheelbarrow race, the egg and ladle race and the sack race.

When the games were over the Scots, old and young, held a dance in the pavilion.

MRS. CARRIE MAFFITT DIES AT AGE OF EIGHTY

She Was a Pioneer Resident of Atlanta and One of Oldest Members of Her Church

Mrs. Carrie A. Maffitt, a resident of Atlanta since ante-bellum days, died at 3 o'clock Friday morning at the residence of her granddaughter, Mrs. Mark J. McCord, 585 West Peachtree street.

She was eighty years old. She had outlived all her sisters and is survived only by her granddaughters, Mrs. Henry Inman and Mrs. McCord, and her grandson, Ben Lee Crew.

Mrs. Maffitt was the oldest member of the First Methodist church in Atlanta with one possible exception. She was one of the few survivors of the old school of the matrons of the south who led their quiet life without ostentation and whose many good works were done without parade and were known only to the few to whom they were closest.

The funeral services will occur at 10 o'clock Saturday morning from the First Methodist church.

JIM LOWE LEAVES GRADY STILL BEREFT OF SPEECH

Still silent, Jim Lowe, the white man who lost his voice a week ago between the hours of midnight and 3 o'clock in the morning, and was later taken to the Grady hospital, left there Thursday with his brother for their home in Newborn, Ga.

The bump on Lowe's head remained prominent as ever and physicians are puzzled yet by his strange case.

His brother could offer no explanation of Lowe's affliction, declaring that when he left home several weks ago he could talk as well as any man. Lowe was suffering considerable pain when he left the hospital, but obeyed every instruction given him with a pitiful docility.

FOURTH DISPOSAL PLANT IS PLANNED FOR ATLANTA

It Will Take Sewage from McDaniel Street Sewer, Which Drains Large Area

A sewer disposal plant is likely to be built by the city to take the contents of the McDaniel street sewer, instead of pumping it into the Entrenchment creek sewer, as first intended.

The late bond issue carried money to extend the McDaniel street sewer as an interceptor, but subsequently the city made arrangements with the county to furnish the labor to extend all the bond issue sewers to the city limits full trunk size, and the McDaniel street sewer is included in this arrangement.

A trunk sewer will drain a much larger area than the proposed interceptor would have drained, and thus the problem of pumping the sewage over into the Entrenchment creek sewer is made more difficult, with the result that plans for a disposal plant are being considered. It will be built in the vicinity above Lakewood and will serve quite a large territory, including part of Oakland City.

The sewer committee of council and the bond commission will meet Friday afternoon to make arrangements for stone to commence the work on the sewer. Instead of buying small stone, the city will probably buy a crusher and handle large sized stone.

The McDaniel street disposal plant will make the fourth to be built by the city.

NIGHT WATCHMAN FALLS INTO DEEP BASEMENT

Night Guardian of Ward-Truitt Building Suffers Broken Leg and Shoulder

When the watchman's signal had been delayed two hours and a half Thursday evening the operator of the American District Telegraph central board sent an inspector to the old Ward-Truitt building, at the corner of Decatur and Pratt streets.

Inspector Edwin Flapp found J. T. Harwell, the night watchman, unconscious in the basement. Surgeons at Grady hospital set a broken leg and a broken shoulder blade for him, and Friday morning he was removed to his home on Flat Shoals avenue. The injured man is sixty-five years old. He said that he stepped through a hole in the first floor, forgetting that the steps that formerly were there had been removed. He was due to signal his presence in the building at 6 o'clock p. m. and was found shortly after 8:30 o'clock.

GEM KEEPER WINS $25,000 DAMAGES

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 4.—Sir Arthur Edward Vicars, who was ulster king of arms at the time the crown jewels were stolen from Dublin castle in 1907, was awarded $25,000 damages for libel today in a suit brought against the London Mail, a sensational weekly newspaper.

The newspaper alleged that Sir Arthur shielded the woman who took the jewels out of jealousy of his attachment for Lady Haddo, the wife of Lord Haddo, son of the Earl of Aberdeen, lord lieutenant of Ireland.

MACON EDITOR DIES FROM BRIEF TYPHOID ATTACK

William Barman Associate Editor of Telegraph Succumbs in Hospital

MACON, Ga., July 4.—William Bairman, associate editor of the Macon Telegraph, died at the Macon hospital last night after a short illness with typhoid fever. The announcement of his death was a great shock to his friends in Macon as very few of them knew of his illness. He has been connected with the Macon Telegraph for twenty-five years, first as compositor, then foreman and then associate editor. He was a native of Lancaster, Pa. Mr. Bairman was forty years of age. A wife and one child survive him.

MURDER SUSPECT KILLS SELF IN ANNISTON JAIL

ANNISTON, Ala., July 4.—As a final climax to the preliminary trial of G. H. Bailey, a prominent merchant, charged with the murder of C. W Saunders here about two weeks ago, the defendant committed suicide in the county jail last night some time between 10 and 11 o'clock by cutting his throat.

During the afternoon Bailey had been refused bail.

Pope Receives Von Muehlberg

ROME, July 4.—The pope today received in private audience the Prussian minister, Dr. Von Muhlberg, who presented an autograph letter from Emperor William thanking the pontiff for his felicitations on the occasion of the emperor's recent celebration of his twenty-five years reign.

BOARD OF TRADE FOR COLLEGE PARK FORMED

Citizens of Suburb Meet and Organize to Boost Advantages of Attractive Town

Resolved no longer to let its light be hid under a bushel, the leading citizens of College Park organized a board of trade Thursday night for the purpose of developing the town's advantages.

The meeting resulted in the definite organization of the board with a charter enrollment of fifty-two—the numerous others present who were eligible preferring to defer their membership for a time. Strong addresses were heard, among them being one from Charles D. McKinney, of Decatur, one of the most energetic workers in the steady advancement of that town.

George F. Longino, Jr., was elected president. The following vice presidents were chosen: W. J. Timms, L. C. McCrory, Alonzo Richardson, Rev. A. F. O'Kelly, J. A. Northcutt and S. E. Cooper. Rev. Fritz Rauschenberg, of the Presbyterian ministry, upon whose initiative the meeting was called, was elected secretary and treasurer.

WILL HELP COLLEGE PARK

Mr. Rauschenberg called the gathering to order as temporary chairman, and an invocation was pronounced by Rev. W. A. Farris. Mr. Rauchenberg outlined the purpose of the meeting. "We want to work with our council," said he, "and strive together for the general advancement of College Park.

Mr. McKinney, present upon invitation, related the benefits which have accrued to Decatur from its own board of trade. He remarked upon the pep with which the meeting had been opened and during which he arrived. He praised that spirit, declaring that the part which the ministers play in a community's development is a big one of great good. And to the women, also, Mr. McKinney paid a compliment. From their own clubs, said he, was evolved the idea of a men's organization—the chamber of commerce or the board of trade. The Decatur board of trade, he said, can trace its existence directly to that influence.

MAYOR TELLS OF ADVANTAGES.

B. S. Huie, mayor of College Park, told of "What we have and what we need." The growth of College Park has been irresistible, said he, and has been due solely to the natural advantages of the town. In the past 20 years real values in College Park have advanced 350 per cent, said he. The land values alone in the town now aggregate more than $1,000,000, he declared. He recalled that municipal bonds were voted three years ago, to install water, light and sewer plants under municipal ownership. The present inventory value of the water and light plant is $86,000. The town has refused $100,000 for it. The light plant pays its own operating expense, pays a proportion of the sinking fund and bond interest, and has a surplus left for the other expenses of the town. Detailing the town's acquired possessions, he mentioned its three public schools and its $12,000 free high school now nearing completion; and Cox college for girls and the Georgia Military academy for boys. In 1900 the town's population was 450, said he. Now it is 2,217.

G. F. Longino, Jr., Rev. A. F. O'Kelly, L. C. McCrory, A. Palmer, S. E. Cooper, W. S. Huie and M. L. Brewer were appointed members of a committee to draft by-laws and formulate a board of fifteen directors. Their report will be received at the next meeting of the board, Friday night, July 11. A sinking fund for an aggressive publicity campaign in behalf of College Park was started Thursday night.

AD MAN ASKED TO TEACH SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

Paul Reese, the Ad club man, almost as good a Sunday school teacher as he is an advertising expert, will teach the auditorium class of Dr. L. O. Bricker at the First Christian church next Sunday.

He is a Methodist, and formerly was superintendent of Trinity Sunday school, but the differences of denomination have been disregarded by the Christian Sunday school workers, in inviting him to teach the class, as thoroughly as Mr. Reese had disregarded them in accepting the bid.

This feature is one of the details of the First Christian's plan to maintain its lead as the largest Sunday school in Atlanta.

Dr. Bricker's pulpit in the First Christian church will be occupied Sunday at both services by Rev. John S. Wood, of Atlanta, secretary of the Christian Benevolent association.

DIABETES TETS

Ammonium Sulphate	1.2 grammes
Copper Sulphate	2.6 grammes
Potassium Hydrate	20 grammes
Glycerine	100. cc.
Ammonia Water (s.g. .90)	250. cc.
Distilled Water to make	1000. cc.

Heat one dram of above re-agent to boiling. Add the Diabetic specimen by drops until re-agent is colorless. The number will indicate the amount of sugar. Put the patient on Fulton's Diabetic Compound and test every few days for twenty days and you will know to a certainty whether the sugar is decreasing or not.

The treatment of diabetes has largely been held to Codein. It quiets the patient but is admitted to be hopeless. If, instead of locking up the secretions as the opium in Codein does, an agent be given that will reduce hepatic degeneration thus permitting the liver to oxidize more sugar and starch, gradual recovery or prolongation of life must naturally follow. That Fulton's Diabetic Compound does this in many cases, particularly between the ages of fifty and seventy, can be established by the above formula. It usually takes about twenty days to show.

The thirst and hunger often begin to abate before the sugar decreases; thus many patients know before tests are made that the case is responding. The substance of the formula surrounds each bottle.

If you have Diabetes you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Diabetic Compound before giving up. It can be had at Frank Edmondson & Bro., 11 North Broad St. and 106 North Pryor St., Atlanta, Ga.—(Advt.)

Watering Pot Wrecks Havoc in Roof Garden Among Blue "Roses"

Either Atlanta's makers of artificial flowers have reached the point where they turn out specimens impossible to distinguish from the real thing, or the soul of Black Sam, the negro janitor at the Atlanta club, has not been educated to a fine appreciation of nature and her works.

The Atlanta club is giving a dance Fourth of July night. In preparation for it the roof garden at the club was gaily decorated. Many weeks ago, when the roof garden was first installed, potted ferns and beautiful plants were placed around the edges, but the heat wave of the past few weeks effectually destroyed every vestige of green.

So decorators were called and Wednesday afternoon the garden railings bristled with beautiful creations—purple geraniums, green carnations, crimson sunflowers, even blue roses.

Thursday morning the club officials arrived at the roof garden to face a scene of ruin. The negro boy who sprays the roof every morning had gazed unmoved at the sanguine sunflowers, and not having received instructions to the contrary, drenched them with water. They were annihilated.

Patiently the decorators set to work again Thursday to restore what havoc had wrought. Thursday night the transformation was complete once more. Friday morning ruin again had swept the garden.

The negro janitor had swapped with another man for that day, and the unknown knew not horticulture. The decorators were at work again Friday.

ATLANTA MED. STUDENT RUNS OVER ROME BOY

Aubry Henson Painfully Hurt When Struck by Car of Eli DeLay

ROME, Ga., July 4.—Aubry Henson, a lad twelve years of age, was painfully injured on South Broad street when struck by an automobile driven by Eli DeLay, a student in an Atlanta Medical school. His knee and head were badly cut.

It is expected that the boy will recover without permanent injuries.

DOUGHERTY JURY ASKS CONTINUANCE OF PROBE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ALBANY, Ga., July 4.—The special session of the Dougherty grand jury, called by Judge Frank Park, of the superior court, to receive and consider a report from the special committee appointed to audit the books and accounts of the various county officers, came to an end shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The presentments of the jury recommended that the investigation of the committee be continued, and that a final report of its work be made at the fall term of court.

LEE'S ATTORNEY SEEKS TO GAIN HIS RELEASE

It was reported Thursday morning that Bernard L. Chappell, attorney for New Lee, the negro watchman held in connection with the Mary Phagan case, would take steps to release him from jail by swearing out a writ of habeas corpus.

Attorney Chappell is said to have come to the conclusion that Lee knew nothing about the case other than finding the body and that the state has no right to hold him.

GRIFFIN BANK OFFICERS AFTER ALLEGED FORGER

GRIFFIN, Ga., July 4.—A young man giving his name as B. F. Kersey, was arrested yesterday afternoon charged with forgery, and is now in jail awaiting trial. Kersey presented a check at the City National bank yesterday for $14 drawn on the Bank of Stockbridge and made payable to J. C. Duncan.

The police claim he is wanted by the authorities in Oglethorpe on another charge of forgery.

WOULD INSTALL ELECTRIC METERS ON THE OUTSIDE

City Electrician Turner Has Plan Which He Beileves Company Will Approve

City Electrician R. C. Turner is planning an ordinance to require electric light meters in the future to be installed on the porches of houses, or in some other equally accessible place, and expects to get the indorsement of the architects, the builders and the Georgia Railway and Power company.

"I believe this is one proposition advanced by me which the power company will not oppose," says he. "The installation of meters outside of houses, instead of inside, will prove a great convenience to the power company's meter readers.

"Meters at the present time are installed in every place from the cellar to the garret. If a meter reader finds people out, which is frequent, he has to go back. Sometimes he finds them out several times, and in that case the company charges the monthly minimum, and adds the difference on next month's bill.

"If the meters were in some place accessible to the meter readers, so they could read them without getting inside the house, it would be a great convenience. The city's water meters are all in boxes under the ground at the edge of the sidewalk, and the meter readers never have to stop to ring a door bell."

The ordinance probably will not apply to meters already installed, but to meters to be installed in the future.

A. E. Wilson, an attorney representing certain electrical contractors, appeared before the electric light committee of council Thursday afternoon and urged the repeal of an ordinance recently enacted by council, at the instance of Electrician Turner, requiring electrical contractors to give bond of $1,500. In the course of the discussion Attorney Wilson and Electrician Turner had sharp words, and Councilman Haverty, chairman of the committee, with difficulty prevented them from coming to blows. The committee took no action on the request.

Fire Chief Cummings and a representative of the Southern Bell Telephone company submitted to the committee a plan to install a private branch exchange in the fire department to take the place of all the telephones now in use. They said the exchange would cost $300 to install, but would save $128 per year, and would prove a great convenience to the public. The committee left the matter to the board of firemasters, to take whatever action they may see fit.

CONGRESSMAN HARDWICK TALKS ON CURRENCY BILL

Certain to Pass, He Says, Lower Tariff Assured, Too, He Declares

Congressman Thomas W. Hardwick, of the Tenth district, who has been a visitor in Atlanta since Thursday afternoon, talked freely Friday on the subject of pending bills, and especially in reference to tariff revision, currency reforms and the era of prosperity upon which the country has entered.

In reference to the former subject, Mr. Hardwick declared that the fight was progressing rapidly toward a happy settlement of the tariff question.

"I have just returned from a recent trip through the New England states," said Mr. Hardwick, "and find the sentiment there strongly in favor of a revised tariff schedule. Its backers are so less numerous in other parts of the country. The people want a lower tariff and we are going to give to them.

"Now as to the matter of currency reform, we cannot expect to achieve the desired results in a short time. It is one of the most important and far-reaching questions that have ever come up before congress and for that reason progress must necessarily be slow. A currency bill may be passed at this session, though there is a possibility of it going over to the next, but, as I have said before, it eventually will pass."

Mr. Hardwick will remain here for a few days longer and then go on to Augusta and later to his home in Sandersville before returning to the national capital.

POLICE INSTRUCTED TO WATCH SPEED DEMONS

Accidents and Recklessness Result in War Against Motorists

With officers instructed to watch closely for speed fiends, the automobilists of Atlanta had best be on their guard on the glorious Fourth and on every other day in the future.

The accident to fourteen-year-old Eva Kilpatrick, who was knocked down by an unknown motorist Wednesday, has resulted in a search for the driver of the car which, though it will probably be fruitless, will at least have the effect of putting the screws on other demons of the road. Men have been detailed to search for this motorist.

A double force which has been set on Ponce de Leon avenue and Marietta street, occasioned by the dangers of Independence day, was instructed by Chief Beavers Friday morning to keep a close watch on automobile parties.

Numerous complaints have been received at headquarters from residences of Ponce de Leon avenue. The citizens have been complaining for weeks past that the continual passing of automobiles at a high rate of speed is a constant menace as well as a great inconvenience during the night.

Angered Mothers Snatch Clothing from Auto Driver

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, July 4.—Angered mothers who had seen an uncontrolled automobile plunge through a throng of several hundred children preparing for a parade on the streets of West Pittsburg today almost tore the clothes from the machine's chauffeur, Abe Yuengling, before he was turned over to the police. One of the children in the throng was killed, and twelve others were hurt.

Yuengling declared brakes on his automobile refused to work while he was coming down a steep grade. Frightened, he lost his grip on the steering wheel, and the machine plunged through the crowd of children, crashed against a flight of stone steps and was wrecked.

not want kindergartens, and would not patronize them, to any appreciable extent, were they established. Every true mother is by instinct a kindergartner, and since those great reformers, Froebel and Pestalozzi, have pointed the way, there is no reason why the intelligent mother of the twentieth century should not jealously guard her God-given right and privilege of caring for and training her little ones in the home nest, until they are of sufficient age (which is extremely low in Georgia) to venture into the public schools.

TO HELP HER "GOOD MAN."

We all know too well that the tendency of the age is for the woman to go out from home to earn a small pittance in order "to help her good man out a bit," and that many "good man" wastes on his near-beer, cigarettes, pool games and other small (?) vices more than she can possibly earn, at the same time forcing the state to care for her babies, while she is trying to perform the man's duty—that of providing for his family. This is all wrong, and should be rectified at once, but the free kindergarten is not the way to accomplish it.

Break up the American home influence by removing the responsibility from the father and mother, and placing it on the state, and chaos has indeed come again!

I very much fear that much of the so-called "progress" of the day is only tending toward communism, and back of that the jungle. I maintain that our highest civilization is centered in the home, and it were well if that home had a fence around it (the fence is a great moral force in a community), with the father as the head of the family, the husband the band, the bulwark, and the mother the homemaker and the "child gatherer."

Our day is not over; it is upon us in full tide.

Have affairs paused? Does the nation stand still? Is what the 50 years have wrought since those days of battle finished, rounded out, and completed? Here is a great people great with every force that has ever beaten in the lifeblood of mankind. And it is secure. There is no one within its borders, there is no power among the nations of the earth, to make it afraid. But has it yet squared itself with its own great standards set up at its birth, when it made that first noble, naive appeal to the moral judgment of mankind to take note that a government had now at last been established which was to serve men, not masters? It is secure in everything except the satisfaction that its life is right, adjusted to the uttermost to the standards of righteousness and humanity. The days of sacrifice and cleansing are not ended. We have harder things to do than were done in the heroic days of war, because harder to see clearly, requiring more vision, more calm balance of judgment, a more candid searching of the very springs of right.

VALOR WAS GREATEST.

Look around you upon the field of Gettysburg! Picture the army, the fierce heats and agony of battle, column hurled against column, battery bellowing to battery? Valour? Yes! Greater no man shall see in war, and self-sacrifice, and loss to the uttermost; the high recklessness of exalted devotion which does not count the cost. We are made by these tragic epic things to know what it costs to make a nation—the blood and sacrifice of multitudes of unknown men lifted to a great stature in the view of all generations by knowing no limit to their manly willingness to serve. In armies thus marshaled from the ranks of free men you will see, as it were, a nation embattled, the leaders and the led, and may know, if you will, how little except in form its action differs in days of peace from its action in days of war.

May we break camp now and be at ease? Are the forces that fight for the Nation dispersed, disbanded, gone to their homes forgetful of the common cause? Are our forces disorganized, without constituted leaders and the might of men consciously united because we contend, not with armies, but with principalities and powers and wickedness in high places. Are we content to lie still? Does our union mean sympathy, our peace contentment, our vigor right action, our maturity self-comprehension and a clear understanding in choosing what we shall do? War fitted us for action, and action never ceases.

I have been chosen the leader of the nation. I can not justify the choice by any qualities of my own, but so it has come about, and here I stand. Whom do I command? The ghostly hosts who fought upon these battle fields long ago and are gone? These gallant gentlemen stricken in years whose fighting days are over, their glory won? What are the orders for them, and who rallies them? I have in my mind another host, whom these set free of civil strife in order that they might work out in days of peace and settled order the life of a great nation. That host is the people themselves, the great and the small, without class or difference of kind or race or origin; and undivided in interest. If we have but the vision to guide and direct them and order their lives aright in what we do. Our constitutions are their articles of enlistment. The orders of the day are the laws upon our statute books. What we strive for is their freedom, their right to live themselves day to day and behold the things they have hoped for, and so make way for still better days for those who follow who are to come after them. The recruits are the little children crowding in. The quartermaster's stores are in the mines and forests and fields, in the shops and factories. Every day something must be done to push the campaign forward; and it must be done by plan and with an eye to some great destiny.

How shall we hold such thoughts in our hearts and not be moved? I would not have you live even today wholly in the past, but would wish to stand with you in the light that streams upon us now out of that great day gone by. Here is the nation God has builded by our hands. What shall we do with it? Who stands ready to act again and always in the spirit of this day of reunion and hope and patriotic fervor? The day of our country's life has but broadened into morning. Do not put uniforms by. Put the harness of the present on. Lift your eyes to the great tracts of life yet to be conquered in the interest of righteous peace, of that prosperity which lies in a people's hearts and outlasts all wars and errors of men. Come, let us be comrades and soldiers yet to serve our fellow men in quiet counsel, where the blare of trumpets is neither heard nor needed and where the things are done which make blessed the nations of the world in peace and righteousness and love.

VETS START HOME.

The army of veterans began to dissolve today and only the presence of President Wilson kept thousands in camp. Before noon close to 15,000 of the men who were here Thursday had departed for their homes. The grand rush will begin tonight, and tomorrow and the railroads of Gettysburg will have their hands full.

Special trains will have to be run out at short intervals to take care of the men who wish to hurry away.

Major J. E. Narmoyle, the army officer, who arranged the big camp for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, is the recipient of hearty congratulations on the sanitary arrangements. Despite the fact that more than 50,000 men have lived in it for nearly a week, the camp is in an unusually good condition. It is claimed by army officers and experts to be one of the most perfect military camps as far as sanitation is concerned, that the world has ever seen.

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, commissioner of health, made a statement today in regard to the remarkably low mortality during the celebration.

Dr. Dixon said: "The fact that only eight deaths have occurred during the excessive heat, despite the presence of 50,000 to 60,000 veterans and civilians, the majority of whom are of advanced age, is probably due to several causes.

"In the first place the old soldiers represent the survival of the fittest, secondly the sanitary arrangements for the celebration were considered with the utmost care and have been of the most advanced character.

OLD CLASSMATES MEET.

Two generals, one a regular United States army officer, and the other a Confederate commander who were classmates together at West Point before the civil war, met in the camp last night for the first time since they left the military academy, 52 years ago, although they fought against one another in the civil war. They are General Felix Robertson, of Texas and General J. N. Barlow, of Washington.

Their meeting occurred when the entire Confederate body, headed by a band, marched to general headquarters to pay tribute to Major Jas. E. Wermoyle. As they stood in front of the tent, with General Robertson and General Thompson Brown at their head, the former recognized General Barlow in civilian clothes. Stepping forward General Robertson accosted the man: "Excuse me, aren't you a West Pointer?" he asked.

"Yes, I am General J. H. Barlow, retired," replied the officer.

"I remember you," said General Robertson. "You were in my class. We entered the academy in 1857: I left in '61 to join the Southern army. Don't you remember me?"

"By George," said General Barlow, "I do remember you, perfectly!"

The two generals later spent several hours in General Barlow's tent talking of the days spent at West Point and relating incidents and experiences of the war.

SUFFRAGETTES SCORE.

Woman suffrage has found favor among the veterans. At Suffragette's tent, near the big central tent, hundreds of men in blue and gray pour in every day and sign their names to a senatorial petition. The women in charge of the tent say that 12,000 men, representing 22 states, have signed.

Governor Mann, of Virginia, and General Young, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, started a movement to have a grand reunion of the armies of the north and south at Richmond in April, 1915, on the fiftieth anniversary of the evacuation of the capital of the Confederacy. If this reunion takes place the men in blue will be the guests of the men in gray. The state of Virginia probably will be asked for assistance.

BANDITS RANSACK TRAIN AND ESCAPE ON ENGINE

Two Robbers Loot Train and Get Away Without Firing a Shot

(By Associated Press.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 4.—Two masked bandits held up and robbed Illinois Central passenger train No. 1, southbound, early today in the Tallahatchie river bottoms near Batesville, Miss., and after splitting the train into three sections, escaped with booty variously estimated between $500 and $3,000. Railroad special officers and and a sheriff's posse with bloodhounds are on the trail of the robbers.

According to official reports to General Superintendent Egan here, the explosion caved the side of the safe inward, scaring some of the contents, but money was scattered over the car, and it is believed the bandits secured several thousand dollars. It is said the mail car was not rifled.

Mr. Pippin's Oat Crop

momentary success of merely local importance.

The outflanking operations of the Bulgarian troops toward Krateve and Egri Palanka have been successfully accomplished, he says, so that the Bulgarians are now advancing on Kumanova and the Servian frontier.

On the right bank of the river Vardar, he adds, the flanking operations of the Bulgarians have likewise progressed favorably so that Servian positions at Veles (or Koprili), twenty-three miles southeast of Uskup, have become untenable and a Servian retreat is imminent.

The Bulgarian movement against Saloniki is also being continued successfully and portions of the Greek army have begun to retire.

Bulgarian Premier and Cabinet aHve Resigned

(By Associated Press.)

VIENNA, July 4.—A telegram to the Reichpost from Sofia says Premier Daneff and his cabinet have resigned and a coalition is being formed by General Rache Petroff, who after the capture of Saloniki, was appointed military governor of that city.

General Michel Savoff, commander in chief of the Bulgarian army, has been appointed minister of war, and General Radke Damitrief, victor of Kirk-Klisseh and Luleburgas has been appointed to the chief command of the Bulgarian army in the field.

The Athens correspondent of the Reichspost telegraphed that Premier Venizelos, of Greece, declared the conference of the Balkan premiers at St. Petersburg was belated and rendered impossible by the resumption of hostilities. A special session of the Greek parliament is to be convoked by the premier to draw up and pass a proclamation to the Greek nation and army.

Bulgarians Likely to Pause After Defeat

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 4.—The Times thinks that the checks the Bulgarian forces have received are calculated to give Bulgaria food for thought, and that may before long be glad to avail herself of the Russian emperor's good offices, especially in view of the attitude of Rumania.

According to trustworthy accounts, the Bulgarian premier, Mr. Daneff, has not abandoned hope of going to St. Petersburg, and Premier Venizelos, of Greece, is willing to resume negotiations if Bulgaria withdraws her army across the conventional line.

Bulgarians Massacre Greek Women and Babes

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 4.—King Constance, of Greece, telegraphed personally today to the Greek minister here confirming the report of the massacre of Greek soldiers by Bulgarians in Macedonia and the extermination under the most horrible circumstances of the Greek populations in the villages through which the Bulgarians retreated.

Servians Cross Bulgarian Frontier at Tzernck Hill

(By Associated Press.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, July 4.—A regiment of Servian infantry accompanied by two squadrons of cavalry and a batery of artillery, crossed the Bulgarian frontier yesterday and reached the top of Tzernck Hill, where the troops are now encamped.

1,177 Bulgarians Are Captured By Servians

At one end of the plaze will be an historical museum containing relics of American historical events, principally of the War of 1812, and at the other end, a building emblematic of a century of peace between Great Britain and the United States. This will be the highest monument in the world, excepting the Washington monument at the national capital, and the highest column without exception. It will cost approximately $1,000,000, which is being contributed by the national government and the ten states affiliated in this centennial.

How Is the Time to Get Rid of Those Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from Jacob Pharmacy and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—(Advt.)

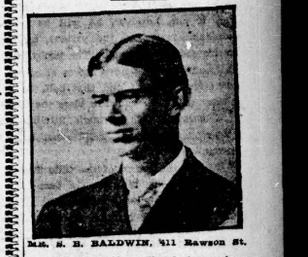
Chronic Appendicitis Cured With Nuxcara



Mrs. S. B. BALDWIN, 411 Rawson St.

Says: my wife suffered for a long time with stomach and intestinal indigestion, which set up a catarrhal condition of the entire digestive tract, with chronic appendicitis, which we thought would be relieved only by an operation, but through the advice of friends I put her on Nuxcara, the wonderful stomach remedy. The first bottle of Nuxcara removed all the distressing symptoms, and after taking four more bottles she is entirely recovered, and is now enjoying perfect health.

My wife's mother was so pleased that Nuxcara had cured my wife, that she decided to try it, and she had submitted to an operation without getting any relief, but began to improve at once under the Nuxcara treatment, and today is in better health than for years. I regard Nuxcara as the finest medicine on earth for any form of stomach and intestinal trouble and heartily recommend it as a certain and positive cure."

Mr. Baldwin is a prominent business man, who can be seen at any time. He like every one else who endorse Nuxcara has no motive but to help some one suffering with indigestion, dyspepsia and catarrh.

A New and Cheering Chapter In the Story of Ollie Taylor.

Another chapter has opened in the true story of Ollie Taylor. The boy whom misguided critics in distant States were prone to pity as the victim of a merciless and stupid Georgia law is to be paroled from the Fulton County Industrial Farm, the corrective institution to which he was sent, not as a penalty for any particular misdeed, but as a wholesome means of strengthening his character and fitting him for responsible citizenship.

When Ollie was taken from the streets and placed in the reformatory under an indeterminate sentence some two years he could neither read nor write. He now has the rudiments of a practical education and his mechanical gifts have been so encouraged and trained that he shows promise of making a mark in some useful craft. More than that he has become amenable to discipline, has learned important lessons of self-control, has developed a sense of duty to others; in short he has been guided from the wayward paths he was going and turned face forward on the straight road to honorable manhood.

And now the boy is to be released, conditionally in the beginning but finally, if he proves true to his trust. As soon as employment can be found for him, he will be paroled for a period of four months. If during that time, his conduct is good, he will remain free, if not, however, he will be returned to the industrial farm and the patient, systematic efforts for his reform resumed. The probability is that he will make good, as have scores of other lads in similar circumstances; and that both he and the community will have cause to bless the State that deals with erring youth through intelligence and true sympathy rather than indifference or mawkish sentiment.

This is the record of the Ollie Taylor case, about which there has been such a vast deal of idle and sometimes pernicious gossip among misinformed persons and journals in other sections. It has been asserted that this Georgia boy, not out of his teens, was sentenced to the chaingang, or, to the reformatory, for having filched a five-cent bottle of soda water; and the rumor has been played upon and colored until it became monstrous in its falsity. It is to be hoped that the guileless people and papers who were deceived thereby will now take note of the fact that Ollie is at liberty and will remain so, as long as he continues to deserve it; that his sojourn in the reformatory has strengthened his body; enlightened his mind, disciplined his character and stirred his ambition to win and hold a worthy place in the world. His story, when fully understood, becomes not a reproach but a distinctive credit to Fulton county and the State of Georgia.

Japan continues to send us notes.

The Balkans don't believe in a sane Fourth.

The Fourth dawned like a thousand automobile tire punctures.

You can believe every word an honest politician tells you—but first find your honest politician.

A New Balkan War.

The late Balkan war was a crusade for civilization; the new war is a wrangle for spoils. The Allies having won an epochal victory by their united stand against the Turk are now hazarding the fruits of their achievement by a selfish brawl among themselves. Bulgaria seeks a lion's share of the conquered lands. Servia and Greece, each bent upon extending its particular sphere of control, fling a sharp challenge to their big neighbor. The larger Powers look on, apparently unable to pacify the disputants and, in the case of Austria, not very desirous of doing so. Thus it seems that a second war with none of the justice or real glory of the first but with far more peril to the peace of Europe is about to be fought.

The Greeks and the Serbs feel that they have a righteous cause. The former contend for the possession of Salonica, a city of high commercial and strategic value and of Hellenic origin. Servia is chiefly concerned in securing an outlet to the Adriatic, without which, it is believed, she will dwindle into insignificance. It was hoped that these and all other issues could be settled through the good offices of the Powers but for many weeks past the Balkan States, particularly Bulgaria, have shown a testy temper and now, unless the Powers exert themselves to the utmost and as a unit, fighting of serious consequence will come.

▲ Prolonged war in the Balkans at the present time would not only be gravely disturbing to Europe but also especially unfortunate for the countries immediately concerned. The territory that has been wrested from Turkish control is naturally rich but its development requires peace. Only through quiet, constructive years can the ills of the old Ottoman regime be cured. It will be pitiable, indeed, if the energy and resources which should be turned to the remaking and the emancipation of these countries is spent in wastful war.

The Balkan States themselves can ill afford another conflict. Their treasuries are exhausted and their populations reduced by the Turkish campaigns. This circumstance, if turned to due account by the larger Powers, could be made a potent influence for peace. It was reported some time ago that France would lend no money for military preparations in the Balkans. If that purpose is adhered to and is followed generally, any considerable war will be well-nigh impossible.

England, France and Russia are apparently very much in earnest i. their desire for peace. But the motives of Austria are open to suspicion. It was Austria that led the Powers in the movement for an autonomous Albania and in coercing little Montenegro into renouncing hard-won Scutari. Austria has long coveted a foothold or a clear path in the peninsula and seemingly she reasons that a weakening or destructive war among the Balkans themselves would open the way for her ambition; hence it is suspected that she is in no wise loath that the fighting should proceed.

It is still possible, however, and certainly it is to be hoped, that a more generous policy will prevail among the large Powers and that through their combined influence they will force the present issues to arbitration.

Heat like this will even take water out of watermelon.

The Balkans don't intend to invoke the milennium by quitting war.

Keep cool if you would be in a position to strike while the iron is hot.

To a man of forty the best thing about a picnic is the excuse he can invent for not going.

Colors As Cures.

Many a beldame in wayside villages still insists that a wrapper of red flannel is the surest cure for sore throat; and the efficiency lies, she will tell you, not so much in the cloth as in its color. Interestingly enough the remedy is often effective, or at least the muffled patient gets well. Is this merely a homely superstition or has it a hidden basis somewhere in scientific truth, as most superstitutions have?

A writer in London "Answers" holds the latter opinion. "Learned authorities," he says, "agree that red light is excellent in most skin diseases, while blue and violet are infallible germ killers. Green is regarded as a sure bringer of rest and calm, and is generally used in treating all sorts of eye complaints and nervous diseases." It seems, indeed, that from time out of memory certain colors have been regarded as conducive to bodily welfare. It has long been a Spanish custom, we are told, that children suffering from measles shall be dressed in a red gown and dosed with red liquids, while in parts of the Orient measles patients are painted a vivid crimson.

The use of the violet ray in treating certain maladies today is familiar and the color idea as related to health and comfort is also evident in our white suits and shoes for summer. It may be that as experiment advances, the superstitittions of the simple will become the science of the wise.

Temperament during courtship develops into temper after marriage.

It may be sane as to fireworks, but the Fourth of July orator is still with us.

The Balkans evidently held no preliminary peace conference with Secretary Bryan.

There is a great advantage in being in love. While it lasts your other troubles seem insignificant.

Atlanta-Made Goods.

The manufacturers who have pledged their support to a permanent exhibit of Atlanta-made goods have done a fine thing for the community's progress as well as for their individual interests.

This enterprise will educate our own people to a broader knowledge and a keener price in their city's industrial affairs. Few have a general idea that a great deal has been accomplished in that field, but the average citizen scarcely dreams of its full extent and variety.

Besides this, such an exhibit will prove an invaluable advertisement of Atlanta's resources and products. It will attract to this city hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of trade that is now drifting to distant markets. It is gratifying to know that plans for the exhibit are maturing and that its success is assured.

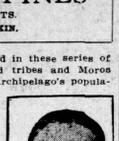
THE PHILIPPINES

XXII.—THE IGOROTS.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.



It has frequently been explained in these series of articles that the Philippines' wild tribes and Moros constitute barely one-tenth of the archipelago's population of 8,000,000, but this seems necessary because of the erroneous impression in this country that the Igorots seen at the St Louis and Seattle expositions were representative Filipinos. There are nearly 7,000,000 Christianized Filipinos; between 500,000 and 600,000 Moros; 180,000 Igorots, and several thousand non-Christians in various small wild tribes.

The 180,000 Igorots are found in eleven provinces of northern Luzon. They vary widely in development, ranging from the barely civilized down to the wildest head hunters. The Benguet Igorots found around Baguio are the tamest, while the fiercest are the Hongoots and the Lalingas. All of these wild men of northern Luzon are grouped for administrative purposes in the mountain province with an American governor and American lieutenant governors in the various subdivisions. The Great White Father of these peoples is Dean C. Worcester, secretary of the interior. They consider him the king of the islands. Their governor for a great many years was William F. Pack, in whom they had great confidence, and the present governor or administrator general is A. E. Eckman who also knows them by virtue of long and intimate experience.

The Igorots are the descendants of the same Malay stock as the Christianized Filipinos, but centuries of isolation in their mountain ranges of from 5,000 to 8,000 feet above sea level has developed different traits and widely divergent customs. The hardy life and the cool climate, which is that of the temperate zone rather than that of the tropics, also has made them stronger and more active than the Filipinos of the lowlands. The Bontoc Igorots also display many evidences of the Chinese infusion which resulted from a northward flight of the followers of the notorious Chinese pirate Limahong after he had been driven from the vicinity of Manila in the early part of the eighteenth century. The manners, customs and traditions of the Igorots while bearing strong general resemblance, when measured by the standards of the ethnologists show many differences. For example, the people near the coast in the sub-province of Amburayan show plainly the influence of Spanish and Filipino civilization, wearing a reasonable amount of clothes, while the isolated ones such as the Bontoc Igorots go almost naked.

Every Igorot town has a loose government which is satisfactory to the inhabitants. It consists principally of a council of old men who settle all disputes from a squabble between a man and his wife to such serious cases as theft and murder. Very frequently the government takes charge of the serious cases and always those of great violence and murder. In fact, the people arbitrators are getting in the habit of appealing from their tribal arbitrators to the American lieutenant governor or justice of the peace or to the regular court which the Philippine government maintains for the mountain provinces. In deciding legal cases the old men resort to unusual methods and peculiar ceremonies, such as blood and hot water tests.

The more advanced Igorots believe in one God. They practice no outward expression or form of worship but the tradition handed down from father to son is that an Igorot is born without sin and can commit no sin except by becoming possessed of evil spirits and that little or no trouble will arise to prevent one another from these evil spirits. They believe that after death all will assemble on one mountain and then be free to enjoy themselves according to their ideas of pleasure and relaxation from the obligations that were imposed upon them in life. Thus many acts of the native tribunals, which Americans would naturally consider punishments are really intended to free the person at the bar from the evil spirits that forced him to do wrong. They have rather definite ideas as to right and wrong and follow them according to their lights. Wild Igorots believe that the sun is the great god and the moon is his little brother. The old people believe that there any many bad spirits, but the young people do not take much stock in them, especially now that they have seen and spoken to a few Americans.

While there is no pauperism among the Igorots, they certainly are not rich. Their possessions are very few, consisting principally of a thatched house, a few rude implements and some trinkets. Some of the headmen own fairly large farms. When a man dies, no matter how rich he may have been, one-half of all his edible possessions and one-half of his horses and flocks are eaten by his community. The body is kept tied in a chair in the house until his property is eaten up; then he is buried on some hillside with proper ceremony. Whenever any one becomes unable to care for himself or herself, relatives or friends assume their support. Their homes are usually ramshackle one-story bamboo affairs of one, two or three rooms. At night entire families huddle together to keep warm.

One end of a room is divided into sleeping quarters in the shape of a sloping box extending entirely across one end of the house, say fifteen feet long by five feet wide and three to six inches high. The ground is the floor of this room. At night before the family goes to bed a fire is built on the floor in the box and when the place is well heated the fire is raked out and the family crawls in, shuts the door tight and goes to sleep. To keep the heat in all the cracks of this box are carefully closed up with clay, the result being an air tight compartment with hardly a breath of ventilation. Their beds are solid planks with the centers slightly hollowed out. A block of wood is supposed to make a good pillow.

The Igorot lives on rice and sweet potatoes the year round. These are the only staples they are sure of month in and month out. They seldom have meat, although they are fond of deer and dog. They also like locusts and grasshoppers. The favorite method of cook a dog is to feed one for several days until he is stuffed. The family and their friends then prepare a hot fire and, encircling the poor animal, they beat him to death with clubs until every bone in his body is broken. They then skin him and cook him whole, thus enjoying a morsel that is at once roasted, stuffed and jellied.

Musings of a Mollycoddle

I do not care to lead a life that's strenuous,
I'm fond of peace and quietude and rest;
The thread of mortal life is frail and tenuous
And it is short at best.

I find no joy in physical activities,
And these, invariably almost, I shirk;
They are—oh, I confess my sad proclivities;
So very much like work!

Good health I prize, of course; 'tis quite commendable;
And by mere strength I truly set some store,
For sturdy limbs are surely most dependable—
But I love comfort more!

The garish day is for men broad and muscular,
Who love the sunshine and the beating storm.
They're welcome sirs! my habits are crepuscular—
There I run true to form!

To run, to row, to leap, ride—all or variously;
To box, fence, wrestle—these are lots of fun;
I mean, you understand, when done vicariously—
I always hire them done!

Perhaps my course will some day make a wreck of me;
Perhaps my system, after all, is wrong;
But why should I break back or leg or neck of me
In trying to be strong?

Responding to ours of recent date asking for the scenario of what the Hofbrau calls Illustrated Dill Pickle, Mr. Ernest Harvier vouchsafes the info that it is a new dill pickle cut in two; spread on top of it a slice of imported Swiss cheese, a slice of cold boiled Irish ham, a few slices of French capon, a couple of slices of Braunschweiger cervelat wurst and Italian salamis; finally surmounted with ring anchovies and astrachan caviar; this dished up, garnished with lettuce salad and beets. Illustrated seems accurate.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

The generally accepted platitude is that the typical American is dollar-mad, that all he lives for is to accumulate more wealth and to splurge therewith. Like most conditions this is a change and surface judgment.

The American race is a new species of men. Although we speak the English language we are no more like the English people than the Romans were like the Greeks. In fact, the traveler is likely to find the French or German more like the American than is the British.

This new race has one chief characteristic; it is Force.

An Italian, Dr. Carlo, has recently published a book, "In the Land of Washington," with a subtitle, "My Impressions of the North American Psyche." Studying us from the viewpoint of a psychologist, he comes to the conclusion that Americans are not all engaged in "the Bacchic worship of wealth," but that this is but one symptom of the tremendous life-power of the people, and that theirs is "a soul of iron whose life is a struggle for the attainment of ideals which are the more intoxicating the more difficult they become." Here is one foreigner who seems to understand.

For, instead of being materialistic and sordid we are the most idealistic race the world has ever seen.

We have gone into business, not as other peoples as an ugly necessity, but because business is the worthiest functioning of common activity. Our trusts are due to the application of ideals to business; above all, the great ideal of co-operation, leading at last to a nation-wide unification of production, transportation, and merchandising. We do not call it socialism; we call it common sense and waste saving. Men of the future will see the vast ideality of such men as Marshall Field, James J. Hill and J. P. Morgan.

The luxury, cruelty and other alleged crimes attendant upon making the nation a huge consolidated business organization are the usual human frailties incident to every great world movement.

No nation is so sensitive to spiritual appeal as ours. Honesty, industry, self-sacrifice and heroism are sure of finding quick appreciation, though we grow more and more impatient of the marking time of ecclesiasticism.

Underneath all our graft in government lies the protesting conscience of the masses, only waiting to be shown just what to do to remove the evil. We are still enshrouded in the ignorance of our times, which accepts the old, inherited, rotten system of political parties as the only means of managing a state. It is big business itself that will one day find a way to abolish this absurd method of government by graft, and substitute a rational organized democracy not organized for claptrap and offices, but organized to do business.

The American is the optimist of the world, because he is conscious of his power to remedy evil conditions. He fears no outward foe nor inward weakness. He attacks the future unafraid of labors or dangers, crying:

"Better with naked nerve to bear
The needles of this goading air,
Than in the lap of sensual ease forego
The godlike power to do, the godlike aim to know."

Wild Life in the Rocky Mountain National Park

In common with most of the other national parks, the Rocky Mountain Park would soon become the breeding-place and refuge of all the animals native to the mountain areas of Colorado. The wild life of this mountain state, which is now hunted from valley to peak and from peak to valley again, would soon learn to find in the Rocky Mountain Park a haven of rest and security, a safe retreat from the murderous crack of the dynamite gun; yet there would be no fences around the park and the overflow of game would furnish a continual supply to the surrounding territory, where the hunter might take his toll of game. The Estes Park region has been a natural home of wild life—of the Rocky Mountain bighorn, the lordly elk, blacktail deer, bear, beaver, and many smaller four-footed friends—all of which lived happy lives in times past and now may do so again in increasing numbers. In the early days it is said that Lord Dunraven attempted to get possession of Estes Park as a game preserve, pronouncing it the finest natural home of game animals he had ever seen in all the world. A few bighorns still remain, as also deer, an occasional bear, beaver, grouse, and ptarmigan. The elk are all gone, but the park could easily be restocked from the great herds of Jackson Hole, Wyoming, when they would multiply and flourish as of old.—From "The Rocky Mountain National Park," by Guy Elliott Mitchell, in the American Review of Reviews for July.

Genius, of course, is no respecter of bodily tabernacles and takes up its tenancy in all manner of them, from the sickly and deformed to the most heroic and symmetrical, but its light will vary according to its conditions of bodily housing, as the light of a lamp will vary according as its wick is splashed at intervals with fuel of uncertain quality or is constantly batted in pure oil. The mind of genius has its equally elaborate complement of brain machinery through which it expresses itself, but that brain mechanism depends in turn upon the rest of the body which elaborates, furnishes and keeps pure its supply of energy-material in the blood. It stands to reason that the more well ordered the body, the more active and vigorous will be the organ of the mind, and that anything which depresses the proper functioning of the physiological machinery must impair in so much the product of that organ, both in kind and amount. As there is no line to be drawn between genius and ordinary mental activity, what is true of one physiologically applies as well to the other.—Dr. James Frederick Rogers in The Popular Science Monthly.

Gipsying in a Motor Truck

Our best vacation, real vacation, was spent last summer in an auto truck. Memories of that are so pleasant and so full of varied experiences that we are going to repeat it this summer. We bought a covered auto truck, second-hand, from a man who wanted to buy a larger one, and on our return, after cleaning it and applying a new coat of paint, sold it for a trifle more than we paid. We carried our own bedding and blankets, oil stove, cooking utensils, dry provisions, and a small tent. Milk, butter and eggs we got in abundance along the way and at half the cost of the home price. When we came to a lake, or an attractive stretch of woods, we stopped as long or as short a time as we wished. You can get over a great deal of road in a day with a truck; they do not easily break or get out of order and are just the thing for camp life. No matter where you may live, a few days will bring you into a new and interesting locality. We went through the middle northwest and among the lakes of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Everywhere people are improving the roads, and in the summer, when the ground is firm, a truck will run through most any of the wooded and shaded by-roads. You can motor from Chicago to the Pacific coast, from the Garden of the Gods to the Grand Canyon of Colorado, as well as from New York to the White Mountains.

Healthful and invigorating, no vacation in the world will give more real enjoyment for yourself and family (we are more than seven!) for money invested, than a motor truck used in this way."—"More Happy Vacations," in the Ladies' World for July.

PAGEANT PLAY GIVEN BY NEGRO SINGERS

Colored Musical Festival Association Commemorating Freedom at Auditorium

From the days of the Egyptian sphinx through years of paganism in darkest Africa to modern freedom in this land the history of the negro race was vividly portrayed in a series of scenic songs Thursday night at the auditorium, given by the Atlanta Colored Music Festival association in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the emancipation of the race in this country.

The festival will conclude with a matinee Friday afternoon and a grand concert Friday evening. The program at the matinee will be songs of entire negro origination, while the grand concert will be featured by all the leading singers of the festival.

The crowd which witnessed Thursday night's performance was a small one. The festival deserved a better, for no show which has been staged at the auditorium, from grand opera to prize fighting, was more entertaining or unique than that which the black singers gave.

The songs are the pure simple melodies of the native black man, and the singers are possessed of voices whose tunefulness is not often surpassed by the greatest of Italian singer.

Such artits as Anita Brown, of Chicago; Roland Hayes, the Boston tenor; James Work, of Nashville, and the violinist, Clarence Cameron, of Boston, are well worth hearing.

Thursday night's program was given in three acts, showing paganism, slavery and freedom. They were preceded by a scene showing Egypt and the cheops. A selected melody, "Go Down Moses," was sung.

The songs illustrating paganism, shown in three scenes, were "The Great Camp Meeting" for the African village scene; "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray" for the African coast scene, and "Stand the Storm" for the scene of the slave ship.

Slavery was presented by the slave market and "Suwanee River," an American plantation and "Steal Away," and an American battle, with "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Freedom began with a negro home and "Home, Sweet Home" was sung. There followed a negro school with the "Slumber Boat Song" and college songs of Fisk and Tuskegee, and a negro church with a processional anthem, "By the Waters of Babylon," rendered by the chorus.

The Fifth Regiment band played before the show and between the acts and scenes.

The following is the program for Friday night:

Chorus, "Wynkin and Blynkin and Nod"—Nevin.

Solo, "Io Son Titania," Thomas—Patti Brown.

Quartet, "The Rosary," Work—Fisk Jubilee singers.

Chorus (a) "Sing Song," Loohr; (b) "Slumber Boat," Gaines—Young people's chorus.

Solo, (a) "June," Runnel; (b) "A Spirit Flower," Tipton—Roland Hayes.

Trio, "Lift Up Thine Eyes," Mendelssohn—Patti Brown, Mabel Hadley, Agnes Work.

Violin solo, Concerto for violin, op. 64, Mendelssohn—Clarence C. White.

Solo, (a) "Vilanelli (b), "Good-By," Tosti—Anita Patti Bron.

Folk song, "Swing Low"—Fisk Jubilee singers.

Solo, "Oramway, Awake, Beloved," Taylor—Roland Hayes.

Chorus, "Hallelujah," Handel—Chorus.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Legislators Return Home to Spend Fourth of July Holiday.

There was an exodus of Georgia legislators from Atlanta Thursday. The general assembly adjourned during the morning over to Monday and the members are taking advantage of this fact to spend Friday, Saturday and Sunday with the home folks.

The is the first visit back home many of the members have made since the legislature began its session on Wednesday, June 25. While a majority of the legislators are spending the holidays at home a number of them are in Atlanta.

Editor Shipp, Cordele Rambler, Is Strong For Woman Suffrage.

Not only does he advocate votes for women, but Editor Charles Jack Shipp, of the Cordele Daily Rambler, wants to see a law enacted which will qualify the women to serve as jurors, judges and governor. In fact, he does not know of any public office which they cannot fill with satisfaction and credit.

Editor Shipp has had some experience with politics—he ran for railroad commissioner last year—and he is not overenthusiastic concerning the way in which public affairs are managed by the male sex.

"A woman who could be elected governor could not be bribed by rich and influential relatives of criminals," declares Editor Shipp. "She would be charitable, but if a man was found guilty on a clear case, even if he was rich enough to bribe the governor, including into signing a recommendation for a pardon, she could not be bought."

Would Strengthen Rather Than Emasculate Georgia's Game Laws

Both the Albany Herald and the Dawson News are opposed to any movement for a repeal of the state's present game law Editor McIntosh, of the Herald, says, should be strengthened by the legislature. These papers commend the vigorous and faithful administration of the game laws by J. E. Mercer, the state game and fish commissioner.

Opposing any attempt to repeal the game law Editor McIntosh, of the Herald, says, "We are quite sure we have the best game laws we have ever had, the only one, in fact, that ever amounted to anything or afforded any real protection to our birds and fish. It has been efficient under the direction of Commissioner Mercer, who has entered into the work which he was selected to supervise with keen enthusiasm."

Editor Rainey, of the News, has the following to say: "The game law, dhich has already been of vast benefit under the vigorous administration of Commissioner Mercer, should be safeguarded wherever possible."

Favors Honorary Seat on Floor of House for Joe Hill Mail of Bibb

Commenting on the suggestion that the house of representatives pass a resolution providing a permanent seat on the floor for former Representative Joe Hill Hall, of Bibb, the Covington News says:

"A Georgia legislature without Joe Hill Hall, of Bibb county, sitting in it would be as out of place as a side saddle on a hog."

Two Georgia Counties Represented By Brothers in General Assembly

It isn't often that two brothers, representing different counties, are members of the Georgia general assembly, but such a condition exists this year. R. J. Arnold, of Hampton, represents Henry county, and his brother, N. D. Arnold, of Arnoldsville, represents Oglethorpe county.

These brothers are numbered among the active men of the legislature and they are rapidly taking their places in the ranks of the leaders. They both favor a permanent registration law and have jointly introduced a bill on this subject, a number of which they are the joint authors, provides that the voting list of a county shall be closed sixty days before an election instead of six months as it is at present required.

Fair Treatment is Promised New County Propositions by Myrick.

A fair and unprejudiced showing is promised both the advocates and opponents of all new county propositions by Representative Shelby Myrick, chairman of the constitutional amendment committee of the house, to which will be referred all new county bills.

Mr. Myrick, who is one of the members from Chatham county, is an able lawyer and one of the most popular men in the general assembly. "These new county propositions will all be considered on their merits," he says. "The committee will sit as an unbiased jury and ample opportunity will be given both sides of each proposition to advance their arguments."

Some effort was made to have the constitutional committees from the house and senate hold joint sessions. This was opposed by Chairman Myrick for the reason that under such an arrangement the senate committee would outrank the house committee, and take precedence over it.

Savannah's New Oil Inspector Is a Native Born Scotchman.

Dr. George W. Heriot, recently appointed oil inspector for Savannah to succeed the late Frank Campos, who died from injuries sustained in an automobile accident, was in Atlanta Thursday to familiarize himself with his new duties. He held a long conference with Dr. H. C. Bryant, the state oil inspector, and met the various officials of the agricultural department.

Dr. Heriot is a native born Scotchman but a naturalized American citizen, and is prominent in Savannah politics. He can recite Bobby Burns' poetry by the hour, thinks Harry Lauder the greatest comedian of his day, and admires Andrew Carnegie, the canny ironmaster.

New Members Soon Learn About Committee on Excuses.

One of the standing committees of the Georgia house of representatives seldom mentioned in the newspapers and, therefore, not generally known, is that on "excuses of members." This committee is charged with the duty of passing upon the validity of excuses offered by members who find it necessary to absent themselves from sessions of the house.

It is supposed to meet just before the end of the legislative term and decide if any of the excuses submitted by members during the session were of such a nature as not to entitle them to draw their per diem for the periods they were absent.

It is customary when a member desires a leave of absence such an act to write out his request and send same to the clerk's desk to be read to the house. The excuse, accompanied by the reasons therefor, is then referred to the committee on excuses.

Since the present session of the legislature opened there have been a number of the new members who found it necessary to go out of the city and for other reasons to be absent. Instead of sending their requests to the clerk's desk some of these have handed them to the chairman of the excuse committee, while others have simply addressed them to the committee and deposited them in the house postoffice.

The new members are fast "getting on" to the procedure and customs, and it will be but a few days before they will be working like veterans.

Fake Vice Rumors Lead Policemen to a Factory

Following the recent charges of protection against the city police department and rumors of disorderly houses in various parts of the city, Chief Heaver is being deluged with letters overwhelmed with reports of such places, many of which are ridiculously unfounded.

He cites one instance where a woman called him up Thursday, declaring that a house of the most revolting nature was being conducted in her neighborhood. She declared that she had seen as many as eighteen or twenty girls enter the place early in the morning, that they would stay all day, and that men were in the habit of following them inside.

The chief thought he had run into something big. Officers watched the place, and they entered expecting to face a scene of horrible depravity. The men and women there, but they were busily employed making buttons for the boss of the factory.

Heringen Resigns

BERLIN, July 4.—General Josia S. Ston Meringen, who has been minister of war since August 12, 1909, resigned today, giving overwork as the reason. He has been appointed inspector of the second army corps, headquarters of which are in Berlin. His successor has not yet been selected.

SUFFRAGETTES RENEW FIGHT TO USE SENATE

Mrs. McLendon Says "We'll Show Up Smallness of Average Legislator"

That the request of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association for the use of the state senate chamber on the nights of its convention, July 9 and 10, was not defeated finally in the senate Thursday but will be renewed Monday when the legislature convenes again, was the assertion Friday of Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, the association's president.

Mrs. McLendon declared that the suffragists of Atlanta and the state are indignant over the rebuke administered to them in the senate Thursday by the curt tabling of their request for the use of the hall. Common courtesy, said she, should have impelled the adoption of the resolution which would have granted their petition.

"It is pitiful that the women have to beg the men for such favors as this," said she.

She asserted that she had the promise of Representative John Y. Smith and Representative R. B. Backburn, both of Fulton, to reopen the matter in the house on Monday. Mr. Blackburn, she said, is not in favor of woman suffrage but is not permitting his personal opinion to restrict him.

"I don't think we will get the use of the senate chamber," said she, "but at least we will show up the smallness of the average Georgia legislator. Elected by the men, they are afraid the women might rise against them, so they keep their heels on the women's necks."

Mrs. J. K. Ottley, whose sympathies are with the suffragists though she declares she does not wish to become active in the matter, asserted that she was surprised that the use of the senate chamber should have been denied "to any group of respectable Georgia women seeking something which they believe to be for the state's good."

INSANE NEGRESS RAISES ROW IN POLICE COURT

A crazed negress caused considerable excitement in the recorder's court Friday morning by yelling profane expressions despite the efforts of the officers to quiet her.

She gave her name as Lula Manuel. For about fifteen days she was an inmate of the city stockade, where her nightly yellings disturbed both prisoners and guards so much that Superintendent Tom Lanford had her brought before the recorder on a charge of vagrancy.

At the trial she raised such a disturbance that she was taken from the court room by force, having been bound over. She was removed to the county jail, the recorder recommending that a private cell be provided for her. It is said that the negress was a victim of the cocaine habit, and that the unsatiated craving for the drug had driven her insane.

THEATERS

Grand—Talking Pictures.
FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

Edison's Talking Pictures, with a splendid program of high grade motion pictures, continue to attract and entertain at the daily matinee and evening performances at the Grand.

The exhibition at the Grand is not an ordinary motion picture show; it is a wonderful exhibition of talking pictures, and gives every soul in an audience something to think about.

Matinee performances will be continued on Friday and Saturday and night performances on both days.

There is so much that is actually good about the bill at the Forsyth this week, and the theater is so delightfully cool and comfortable on hot afternoons and evenings, that it is little wonder that attendance has not been effected by the heat session. Every afternoon and night finds the theater crowded, and the acts are being received just as in regular season.

Seven new big acts will be the attraction next week commencing with the usual matinee on Monday. The headliners will be Cecil Lean and Company, offering the "Motion Picture Man," a comedy sketch that is of strong value.

"A Trip to Paris" continues to draw large audiences to the Bijou. The performance is bright, breezy, snappy and pleasing and the attraction has done a great deal toward popularizing musical comedy tabloids at the Bijou. George Rhen and Cash Knight have made many friends during the week's stay. Their comedy work is pleasing, their parodies in the second act are making the biggest kind of a hit. Grace Wolf, who plays the part of Fifi, is a splendid little dancer, and her specialty between the acts draws generous applause. The performance as a whole has scored heavily this week. There will be the usual performances for the balance of the week, including special matinees on the Fourth. Next week's attraction will be Minnie Palmer's and Norman Friedenwald's 1912 Revue, entitled "Along Broadway," featuring Will Stanton and also be introduced, and the performance also be introduced and the performance promises to be the most pleasing of the various tabloids that have visited Atlanta so far.

Skirts at Savings

Woolen skirts and white washable skirts, both values that will commend themselves to the woman with a sense of economy, but who at the same time does not lose sight of style points. However, there are not more than thirty of the woolen skirts to be distributed at this price, certainly not enough to last out the half-day. So the cool of the morning will be the best time to visit the Ready-to-wear Department,

$1.50 For $5.00 Woolen Skirts

The materials are Scotch mixtures in brown, and black-and-white effects, and a soft tan-and-white striped fabric. Splendidly tailored, of graceful lines, with two little tailored straps in front. High waist line. $1.50 does not pay for the material!

69c For $1.00 Washable Skirts

Of a smoothly finished white linene—that will make many successful trips to the laundry. Four-piece skirts, broad tuck in back, closes side front with large pearl buttons, patch pocket at right side. Indeed an unusual value at $1.00, now 69c.

"Fourth" Essentials

On the Fourth every man turns his good clothes into something portable, and himself towards the shore—or some adjacent substitute where there's "a mighty contiguity of shade."

With the same inspiration he seeks the sort of clothing named as non-conductors of heat.

And these are Muse Crash Suits of high quality and cool texture, mohair suits, or maybe the suit of silk, or Palm Beach cloth.

The regular business of these ideal summer suits is to keep a man in comfort while he gives his attention to things otherwise, and to hold admiration by the persuasiveness of their good style.

Neckties and Silk Shirts of smart design; Muse Straw Hats of assertive quality, and Shoes of cool canvas.

Make of the Fourth a day of ease and freedom, even though it be prophetically recorded to the contrary.

Wishing you a day full of comfort and good times—

Are You Too Hot?

If you are it is high time you set about making yourself as cool as possible. You can't control the thermometer. It goes up and down at its own sweet will, but, if it happens to be on the rise, you can at least do all in your power to prevent the heat from getting the best of you.

Manufacturers have spent many hours of anxious thought devising all sorts of clothing that is as cool as fashion and appearance will allow.

Take advantage of their labors and provide yourself with a light hat, thin underwear and socks, lower collars, a suit with an unlined coat and loose, comfortable shoes. You will be astonished at the difference a few changes in your dress will make in your comfort.

If you don't know just how to go about getting these things, read carefully the advertisements in THE JOURNAL and you will find where to buy at prices that are as reasonable as is compatible with good quality.

The Atlanta Journal

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

When the international polo match was played off, the sun was broiling hot on the second day. Some said there were 20,000 women present. So much for the preface.

A woman coming from th train platform toward the filled stands said: "Look at the balloons they have let loose over the people." They were not balloons, they were parasols. It was an amazing sight; one of the features of the game.

The sunshades were in every color that a tropical country loves and they bobbed up and down over the heads of the women in their gorgeous reds, blues, greens and purples, exactly as though a vendor had presented each woman in the place with one of his round inflated toys.

In addition to what one might call the permanent parasols, there were hundreds of cotton ones made from American flags which the women bought as they entered the enclosure.

It brought home the truth as nothing else had done that parasols were in the height of fashion. The men who make sunshades must have reaped a harvest this year. They are bought for use and for ornament. They are carried open and shut. They are a part and parcel of the color scheme of the costume and they represent enough ingenuity to make one dizzy in trying to measure it.

Parasols from the Orient.

The leading sunshade shows plainly the influence of Japan. Paper is not used, but a vivid silk, which is plain or figured as the bearer likes. The surface is entirely flat and the edge turns up to form a pagoda effect; the bamboo sticks extend for an inch beyond the material.

There are other kinds of Oriental parasols, such as the Chinese shape that has a two-inch railing turned up around the edge, and there are genuine pagoda shapes which run up to a point in the middle and have their heavy wooden sticks extended well beyond the line of fabric.

Even among these gay colors one does not see much of the Cubist silk. It was eagerly taken up for parasols when the furore began, but women rapidly grew tired of it for any use whatever and they passed it by in parasols for those of plain silks or the Japanese kind with its birds and dragon flies.

Some of the most expensive of these parasols are made of silk on which is embroidered or painted three circles, one of which is of dragon flies, another of storks, and another of butterflies. There are white parasols with nothing but great painted dragon flies spread over the surface and there are others of scarlet with black dragons chasing pearls.

Simpler parasols are of plain silk with quillings of ribbon at the edge, and others have narrow quillings of ribbon running down the ribs on the outside.

For formal use there are parasols made of lace with shirred tulle or chiffon and when these shades are to be carried with picturesque costumes, the lace flounces are caught up with garlands of ... or chiffon roses.

The Handles of Parasols.

If Japan influences the sunshade itself, the Directoire influences the handles thereof. These are exceedingly long and finish at the end with a flat disc which holds the monogram in silver or gold or a small mirror which springs open to disclose powder and a puff.

This little bit of vanity has been eagerly taken up by those women who have no objection to powdering their noses or reddening their lips in public.

NEARLY AN ACCIDENT

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

"I don't want anything—books, insurance, paring knives, or any other rubbish for which I have no use—and no time to waste in telling you that," sputtered the pompous, gray whiskered man behind the polished roll-top desk. "Get out!"

"Oh, very well," said Laurence Brown, and backed out as though he didn't care

a cent about coming in. But in the corridor he walked with lagging steps to the row of iron elevator doors. It was a long minute before the car came down. He had time to drown under the disappointment. Soliciting insurance is not physically hard unless one has breakfasted on a cup of very weak coffee, and his had been boiled over twice before that morning. Several times a week Laurence swore at himself, if he hadn't coaxed her away Stella would now be living comfortably in her father's home in Ohio—in that big farm home where food was plentiful as a matter of course; where folks never thought of scheming and worrying every day over the next day's supply. And if he hadn't coaxed her away there would be no small Laurence whose face got whiter and more pinched every month, and who, the doctor said, simply must have better food. Stella said that she had never regretted and she wouldn't think of going home until the folks were willing to retract, and somehow Laurence was coming to their opinion of his general worthlessness. Else why did bad luck dog him and Stella so persistently? It certainly couldn't be Stella's fault. One firm had failed, another let him go to make room for a nephew, another had been absorbed by a bigger firm which had no place for new employes. He had been glad to get this chance of soliciting insurance. But after two weeks he had not been able to sign a single policy.

He essayed a chirpy whistle as he stepped into the elevator. The whistle wavered into a sigh that threatened to grow into a groan. Maxon, the pompous man, had been given him as a splendid prospect. He was all ready to sign, if approached the right way, the manager had told him in a kindly effort to boost him. But evidently he had not approached Maxon the right way.

Laurence went down to the street and stood undecided upon the corner. It was noon. Across the way a cafe window enticed him with its pans of brown beans, rolls, and chocolate eclairs. He turned away. It was no sight to linger by when a chap didn't have even one lonesome nickel.

At the end of the street Lake Michigan lay in sluggish green ripples. He walked down to Grant park and flung himself on the ground. Around him were other men, some discouraged and some merely clerks spending their noon hour in the fresh air. But his lassitude was of long duration. He sprang up, spurred by thought of Stella and the boy out in the room of the dingy house whose landlady's capacity for pity had long before been drained away by countless forlorn roomers. In the one room they slept, cooked and ate. Light housekeeping in Laurence's mind his teeth at the word. If ever he made enough to live in a flat again he hell never grumble.

That afternoon he went from one office to another, smiling with what assurance he could master, only to be repulsed again and again. Each hour he was more tired. But he kept on doggedly. He had to do something. He dared not go home another night to Stella with the same story of failure. Not that she would reproach him. She wasn't that kind. More than likely she would save the small bit of food that she ought to have eaten at noon and insist that he eat it.

He was strolling past another cafe when the door opened and the whiff of warm food rushing out almost unnerved him. But he hurried on.

It was nearly 5 o'clock when he again found himself in front of the huge office building that held Maxon. Some impulse—obstinacy, maybe, for it certainly was not hope—made him enter and go up to the eleventh floor. The obstinacy, or whatever it was, gave him vim. He marched down to the gold lettered glass door, his chin flung up determinedly, when it was opened, and Maxon, hat in hand, homeward bound, stepped out.

Not a pronitious time to accost a man, especially one who had told him several hours before to get out. But Laurence was beyond considering whether a time was propitious or not.

"Mr. Maxon," he began.

Mr. Maxon walked past him as though no word had been spoken.

The blood rushed to Laurence's face. He stood a moment in utter dejection, then doggedly followed Maxon to the row of elevator shafts. A car was descending. It stopped to let a passenger off at that floor. Mr. Maxon darted in but the elevator man either lost control or did not see Maxon. It shot down as Mr. Maxon darted through the door, which, shutting with the onward start of the car, caught him as neatly as though it had intended to do it at very time. His head and shoulders seemed to crush before Laurence's horrified gaze. He fell forward. Laurence sprang at him, caught one portly leg and yanked him back.

In a moment a white-faced operator shot the car up and stumbled out to learn if he had committed manslaughter.

"You come blamed near it," roared the apoplectic Maxon, whom fright and wrath had turned purple. "What d'ye mean, shooting your car down when people are trying to get on?"

"I'm—I'm sorry," the man stammered.

"Almost an accident, Mr. Maxon," declared Laurence suavely. "Now you see how important it is that you should be fully sigend up, for your own and your family's protection. If you had been killed—and you had as close a shave as I care to see—you would have had strong cause to reproach yourself for neglecting those near and dear to you—"

"Cut it out," roared Maxon. "Dogoned lot of cheek you've got to stand there and spout to a man whose nerves are shaken. If I had any idea of signing. I wouldn't now, you young chump!"

Laurence subsided hopelessly.

Maxon glared around. "Where's the fellow that pulled me back?" he demanded. "Where'd he scoot to? He certainly did me some service."

Laurence stared silently. He hardly understood. Surely Maxon knew that he had saved him.

It was the elevator man who told him. "There he is," jerking a grimy forefinger at Laurence. "The one you've just been balling out. Gee! but you have a grateful way of treating a fellow that saved your bones and maybe your life!" he added sarcastically.

"You!" said Maxon in amazement. "I —I beg your pardon," he mumbled. "I —was upset. I really didn't know. I am very much obliged to you, young man."

"Cut it out," said Laurence brusquely, walking toward the elevator.

But Maxon rushed forward and grabbed him by the arm. "Come back."

he ordered. "Come back to my office. Come back to my office, Say," as he fairly pulled Laurence back down the corridor. "I'm not altogether grouch. Honest, I'm not. If," wistfully, "you knew how fellows like you pester me every day you wouldn't blame me, honest, you wouldn't."

There was genuine contrition in Maxon's profuse apologies. Laurence, although almost afraid, allowed himself to hope. And in less than ten minutes Maxon's signature was attached to two policies, one for accident and one for life. The checks were mailed that night to the insurance company. Laurence, so glad that he forgot his fatigue, started on a three-mile walk to the room where Stella was waiting. Supper would be almost nothing that night, as usual, but the next day, when he collected his commission, what a feast he and Stella and the baby would have. Thoughts of it made the long walk shorter. He, hurried up the shabbily carpeted stairs, eager to bring the light to Stella's eyes with the good news. And as he opened the door he stepped back, sure that he was in the wrong room.

"Come in," laughed Stella. "You're in the right place. Hungry?" Her eyes already had a sparkle; her cheeks were so pink that their wanness was not noticeable. Young Laurence, in his high chair, was crowing. And at the table! Laurence half staggered. Chicken, jelly, preserves, cake, homemade bread, a ham, apples sweet potatoes, cookies—everything that a farm can produce was there, piled in profusion. "Mother sent us a big box," Stella cried. "Why, Laurence, I believe you are crying."

Evening Party

An event of Thursday evening was the party at which Judge and Mrs. Beverley D. Evans entertained the members of the college set at their home on West Peachtree street, in compliment to their niece, Miss Beverly Irwin, of Dawson.

The veranda was banked with palms and growing plants, and in one corner punch was served during the evening by Miss Georgia Rice and Miss Beverly Evans, of Sandersville.

Pink and white prevailed in the dining room, the center piece of the table being a bouquet of pink sweet peas, and tall crystal vases holding white phlox continued the suggestion.

Miss Irwin and Miss Evans wore dainty white lingerie gowns panelled with lace, and Mrs. Evans was costumed in white lisse draped over silk.

An informal and delightful evening was enjoyed by the seventy-five young people present.

ARTISTIC USE OF TUCKS

This white lingerie gown, simple in design, depends for its charm on an interesting use of tucks and fine embroidery. The little violet glass buttons on the front of the bodice and the petunia-colored silk girdle are the only color on the gown.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED-TIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

Bowser the Hound lay in Farmer Brown's dooryard dozing in the sun. Bowser was dreaming. Yes, sir, Bowser was dreaming. Farmer Brown's boy, passing through the yard on his way to the cornfield, laughed.

"Sick him, Bowser! Sick him! That's the dog! Don't let him fool you this time," said he.

You see Bowser was talking in his sleep. He was whining eagerly and every once in a while breaking out into excited little yelps, and so Farmer Brown's boy knew that he was dreaming that he was hunting, that he was on the trail of Reddy Fox or sly Old Granny Fox. His eyes were shut and he didn't hear what Farmer Brown's boy said, and the latter went off laughing, his hoe on his shoulder, for there was work for him down in the cornfield.

Bowser kept right on getting more and more excited. It was a splendid hunt he was having there in dreamland. Across the Green Meadows, along the edge of the Green Forest, and up through the Old Pasture he ran—all in his dream, you know—and just ahead of him ran old Granny Fox. Not once was he fooled by her tricks, and she tried every one she knew. For once he was too smart for with delight, for he was sure that this time he would catch her.

And then something queer happened. Yes, sir, it was something very queer indeed. He saw Granny Fox stop just a little way ahead of him. She sat down facing him and began to laugh at him. She laughed and laughed fit to kill herself. It made Bowser very angry—oh, very angry, indeed. No one likes to be laughed at, you know, an dto be laughed at by Granny Fox of all people was more than Bowser could stand. He opened his mouth to give a great roar as he sprang at her, and then—why, Bowser waked up. Yes, sir, he really had given a great roar and had waked himself up with his own voice.

For a few minutes Bowser winked and blinked, for the sun was shining in his eyes. Then he winked and blinked some more, but not because of the sun. Oh, my, no! it wasn't because of the sun that he winked and blinked now. It was because—what do you think? Why it was because Bowser the Hound couldn't tell whether he was awake or asleep. He thought that he was awake. He was sure that he was awake, and yet —well, there sat old Granny Fox laughing at him. Just as he had seen her in his dream. Yes, sir, there she sat laughing at him. Poor Bowser! He just didn't know what to think. He rubbed both eyes and looked. There she sat laughing just as before. Bowser closed his eyes tight and kept them closed for a whole minute. Perhaps when he opened them again she would be gone. Then he would know that she was only a dream fox after all.

But no, sir! When he opened his eyes again there she was laughing harder than ever. Just then a hen came around a corner of the house. Granny Fox stopped laughing. Like a flash she caught the hen, slung her over her shoulder and trotted away, all the time keeping one eye on Bowser.

Then Bowser knew that this was no dream fox, but old Granny Fox herself, and that she had had the impudence and boldness to steal a hen right under his very nose! He was awake now, was Bowser, very much awake. With a roar of anger he sprang to his feet and started after Granny, and with his great deep voice, startled the Merry Little Breezes at play on the Green Meadows.

Colonel J. C. Woodward, College Park, Ga.

Dear Sir: I wish to thank you for the many kindnesses shown, and for the great help you have been to me with my boys. We are very much pleased with the improvement Gerald has made, and I am also much pleased to be able to advise you that Henry seems to at last have found himself. I have a letter from the College he is attending, that he has worked hard this past 3 months, and has not only passed all the studies he is carrying in College, but has also made up all his entrance credits, and goes back there next Fall a full fledged Junior, and eligible for Athletics, and I feel now that he is coming out all right. Richard is again doing fine.

Again Thanking you, and assuring you any help I can be to you in any way, shall be only too glad to do so, and with best regards, I remain, Yours very truly, W. C. HULL.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES

And Blackheads. Would Itch, Burn and Smart. Arms and Back Affected. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Four Weeks.

Ruffin, N. C. — "My face became full of pimples and blackheads, and would itch, burn and smart. The skin was rough and red. I was really ashamed of my face. My arms and back were affected almost as badly. The pimples would fester and there would come a dry scab on top. The trouble caused my face to be disfigured badly and the itching would bother me so I could not sleep well nights, especially during warm weather.

"I used all kinds of ointments, cold creams, powders, soaps, medicine and all kinds of different remedies for my face and arms, but from none did I get any benefit. The trouble lasted me three long years without anything doing me any good until a friend told me about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and then I decided to try them. After the first application I could see some improvement. After using Cuticura Soap and Ointment two weeks I did not look like the same person; most of the pimples had disappeared. At the end of four weeks I was completely cured." (Signed) Miss Mamie Mitchell, Jan. 9, 1913.

It costs nothing to learn how pure, sweet, effective and satisfying Cuticura Soap and Ointment are in the treatment of poor complexions, red, rough hands, itching scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, because you need not buy them until you try them. Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Why Is Elkin's Soda Fount So Popular?

We have heard this question asked often. The answer is very easy. It is because the very best of everything can be found there. Our ice cream is delicious—no other word quite does it justice—and it is made from purest cream. Our syrups are prepared from the choicest fruit. We have experts who serve these drinks and soda fount novelties who are courteous and obliging. Don't fail to ask for what you want. We can supply you.

Fifty Gallons of Milk Served Daily Over Our Counter.

You have no idea what a demand there is for our famous Lactone Buttermilk. Folks come all the way across town just to enjoy it. Two Games in Most Every League---Many Big Boxing Bouts

After Records At Motordrome Friday Night

McNeil, Richards and Lockner Will Go Out and Try to Lower Mark—Two Very Big Events Are on Program

Speed is the watchword at the motordrome for Friday night's events and rain is the only thing which will keep the racers from clipping a second or so from the record made at the last meet when Morty Graves pushed his car up to something like ninety-five miles an hour. Each rider is thoroughly enthused with the determination to break this mark and more than apt it is to be slipped over.

Several of the racers have just been furnished new machines and have spent several days in gearing them up so they will run their very best. Many are the machines that are never turned loose but Friday night it will be different. Each rider wishes to do his best and they are going to out open the throttle no matter if it spills them.

Besides the Walthour sweepstakes and the motordrome purse there will be one or two riders who go out against time as well as a big match race between the stars and an event in which the amateurs will be given a chance to star. The going starts at 8:15 with Jock McNeil working out against time.

This time the trial heats in the sweepstakes will be for three miles with a five-mile final. These events will put all the best racers on the track and the one which wins will have to throw the throttle wide open and travel just a bit.

Jock McNeil, the daring Scotchman, is the ring leader in the movement to beat all past records made on the local track and he has primed his machine to the minute for this very piece of work. Richards is another who is out to clip a second or so off the record and Morty Graves, on an absolutely new machine, is out to put his mark at even a better figure.

NOVICE RACE.

First Heat—No. 11, Houston Crane; No. 12, Nemo Lancaster.

Second Heat—No. 14, "Happy" Kimbrough; No. 15, Ralph Rout.

Final Heat—At 2 miles.

Mile time trial, to beat record of :38 4-5. Jock McNeil.

(To start at 8:27 p. m.)

WALTHOUR SWEEPSTAKES.

(Three-mile heats to qualify, 5-mile finals.)

First Heat—No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Henry Lewis.

Second Heat—No. 2, Harry Swartz; No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 8, Jock McNeil.

Final heat, 5 miles.

MOTORDROME PURSE.

(Two miles to qualify, 4 miles final.)

First Heat—No. 7, Georges Renel; No. 9, Harry Lewis; No. 6, Freddie Luther.

Second Heat—No. 8, Jock McNeil; No. 4, George Lockner; No. 2, Harry Swartz.

Third Heat—No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 5, Tex Richards; No. 3, Billy Shields.

Final heat, 4 miles.

CENTURY IN BINGLE MARK

Harry Welchonce was the first player in any league i nthe country to make 100 hits this season. Harry's century mark was passed by his lone bingle in the fifth inning Thursday.

Joe Jackson also made his hundredth hit on Thursday, but his hit came later in the game. Joe made three out of four times up, and his third hit was his hundredth for the season.

Having annexed the Metropolitan, Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps Whisk Broom may be said to have made a clean sweep.

Four in Row For Atlanta; Hard Hitting

Price Pitched Good Game and Was Backed Up by Hard Clouts — The Hitting Was Deadly—Final Count 9-0

The Crackers were inl a hitting mood and there was nothing to it but the fourth straight win for thie Smithmen. The count was 9 to 0, and the New Orleans Pelicans were the defeated lot.

Gilbert Price broved the main cause for the using of the whitewash brush and Wallace Smith, Izzy Bisland, Joe Agler and Gilbert Price were the main reasons for the Cracker tallies. Of course the whole bunch was in there helping and if a misplay was pulled it was not noticed by those who numbered themselves among those present.

Wallace Smith, with a long triple with three on the bags, and Bisland with a couple of three-ply raps, proved the main forces of the attacking machine. A couple of errors aided in putting over the tallies in the fourth.

Pitcher Walker, a newcomer to the Pel outfit, essayed to stop the winning streak of the Cracker clan, and to say that he fell down on his job is putting it mildly. He started like a house afire, but when Bisland got next to him in the second round for a stinging triple it was all off and from then until the bell sounded it was just a question of how many the home bunch would count.

Tommy Long probably contributed the feature fielding play of the day when he went back and, bumping into the scoreboard, caught Spencer's drive. This was in the ninth inning.

Wallace Smith proved his all-round value in the seventh when he raced over just back of the pitcher and picking up Williams' high bounder came within an ace of getting the batter at first. To make the play Smith ran almost the distance between the bags and at that came near retiring the runner.

Gilbert Price slipped over a good one on the fist infield in the eighth when after hitting sharply at the first pitch ball he slipped a bunt down the third base line and beat it out with room to spare. It was a foxy batting trick.

Second Baseman McDowell set the stands yelling in the third when he fell full length on the ground and flagged a hard bounder from Welchonce's bat and forced a runner at second. It robbed Harry of a hit.

COBB VS. JACKSON

Jackson climbed quite a great deal in Thursday's gabe against Detroit. He got three hits out of four times up. Cobb only got one hit out of three trips to the pan.

Valdosta Defeats Thomasville in Good Game

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 4.—Valdosta defeated Thomasville in a pretty game here this afternoon by the score of 1 to 0. It was a pitchers' battle all the way with Winges having the better of it. The heat was terrific but in spite of it a fast game resulted. Murphey and Swartz starred in the field.

BUNTS AND BINGLES

BY JULIAN MURPHEY

A bleacherite has suggested that one of Birmingham's reasons for benching Napoleon Lajoie was that so few dyed-in-the-wool fans know how to pronounce his name.

THE SLIDING SCALE.

The sliding salary scale is sure to be used by the minor leagues next season according to the belief of President W. M. Kavanaugh. The Southern league head is a great believer in the scheme, which was first proposed by Charley Frank, of New Orleans, and is sure it is equally as popular with many of the other influential minor league officials. It is sure to come up at the December meeting of the National association and unless all signs fail it will be adopted.

An effort was made to adopt the sliding scale at the meeting last season, but it fell through. This was largely accounted for owing to the late start made in the interest of the move. This year with a big lot of preliminary skirmishing it is sure to go through. It is regarded as the only salvation for a minor league and will assure all teams going through the season in good shape.

The sliding scale means that each club can hire just as many players as they wish, provided of course it does not go over the limit, and the fewer the players the better the salaries they will receive. In other words if a club is three players short of the player limit the players will receive a bigger salary for their work, it being divided among less players within the salary limit. It will also be a help to the smaller leagues in that they can hire few players and not have such a heavy monthly expense.

It is much to be doubted if Fred Clarke's "Personal appeal" to his players will do as much good to Hans Wagner's bum pins as a quart or so of arnica.

SEASON PROVING SUCCESS.

Judge Kavanaugh is authority for the statement that the league this season is proving quite a success. The president states that every team in the circuit with the lone exception of Montgomery is making money and that the Billiken outfit is managing to keep their heads above water.

There is every reason for a successful season. The race to date has shown more shifts and surprises than ever before and that it is just what draws the crowds. No fan wishes to see a runaway event, and hen the clubs are continually jumping up and down the ladder as has been the case this season then everyone is on their toes pulling for a big shakeup.

Here in Atlanta the attendance figures are far in advance of any season within history. The team is drawing more than its share while on the road and at home the fans have stuck by the bunch in good fashion. They will stick to the belief that Billy Smith has a good team and is sure to finish high up in the race. And just as long as they believe this the crowds will be there.

"Hoppies" on a harness horse often improves its gait, while "hobbles" on a chicken never does. Which goes to show what a big difference a couple of letters will make.

CY MORGAN AND M'QUILLAN ARE MEMBERS OF "COME BACK" CLUB

Surely 1913 will go down in baseball history as the year of "come backs." First, there was Fred Falkenberg, who returned to the big show from the American association to pitch a great winning streak.

Then Nick Allwock and Heinie Peitz were rejuvenated, if only for a short time.

And now major league teams are busy bidding for Cy Morgan and George McQuillan.

Morgan is with Kansas City, of the American association, whither he was chased by Connie Mack, who believed Cy was not strong for "evening life," which Morgan has always denied.

Morgan is certainly following the straight and narrow now. The ex-big leaguer, melodrama and movies actor has performed notably for K. C.

With a team never firmly entrenched in the first division, Morgan has won 12 and lost 3 games. Columbus is the only team to beat him twice and the only one to hit him at all hard. His spirits is better than when he was with the Athletics and his fast ball as effective as ever it was.

For Columbus McQuillan has pitched splendidly. His fast ball is the terror it was when he broke in with the Phillies. His control, always good, makes him dependable, and this year he has won 10 and lost 4 games. Only once has he been hit for more than eight safeties and three of his defeats were by the closest of scores.

Both McQuillan and Morgan are pitching better than Falkenberg did last year and are sure to be sold this fall.

RITCHIE RULES FAVORITE; PICK ANDERSON TO WIN

Of the fights which will occur all over the country on this Glorious Fourth, there is probably more interest in the three lightweight bouts than in any others. The bouts are between Frank Whitney and Jack Britton in New Orleans, Bud Anderson and Leach Cross, for Los Angeles and Willie Ritchie and Joe Rivers in San Francisco.

The Los Angeles fight fans are very anxious to have the winner of the Anderson-Cross fight meet the winner of the Rivers-Ritchie fight on Labor day.

REPORTS FROM THE CAMPS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 4.—On the eve of their clash for the lightweight title, both Willie Ritchie, the champion, and Joe Rivers satisfied their trainers that they could make the weight today and be perfectly fit. In fact, Ritchie was a half pound under, weighing 133 1-2 at the close of three rounds of boxing with a sparring partner.

The champion will come over from San Rafael this forenoon, just a few hours before he enters the ring at 1:30 p. m., accompanied by Harry Foley, his chief second.

Rivers' chief second will be Joe Levy, his manager, but the services of the veterans, Tim McGrath and Spider Kelly, have been enlisted for the Mexican boy's corner. Ritchie money was much in evidence, 10 to 8 being the prevailing odds, with Ritchie the favorite.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 4.—"Bud" Anderson, the Medford, Ore., lightweight, who will fight Leach Cross, of New York, here, was favorite in the betting, the prevailing odds being 10 to 6.

As far as physical condition goes, there seemed little choice between the two men.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 4.—Willie Ritchie, of San Francisco, the first California fighter to hold the lightweight championship, will step into the ring this afternoon to defend his title against Joe Rivers, of Los Angeles, also a native son, with the odds of 10 to 7 in favor of Rivers. Both fighters declared to be in the pink og condition, both being a hard hitter and clean boxers and a knockout was generally predicted. The lengthening of the odds which opened at 10 to 8, was attributed to the enthusiastic backing on Ritchie by his many friends here and to the failure of the expected flood of Los Angeles money on Rivers.

Eddie Graney, promoter of the fight and chosen by the fighters as referee, said practically every seat in his big open air arena had been sold.

CHANCE SURE TO BUILD GOOD TEAM 'N NEW YORK

—Ban Johnson.

NEW YORK, July 4.—President Ban Johnson, of the American league, on a tour of inspection, paid his first visit to the Polo grounds since Frank Chance assumed charge of the Highlanders, and at the same time had something to say on every baseball topic of the day.

First of all, the president said some nice things about the Highlands' new manager.

"Frank Chance is the man of the hour," began Ban. "He is slowly building up a winning team. I was surprised to learn he had traded Hal Chase for Borden and Zeider, but I believe the deal has benefited both teams. Chance could have had Fournier instead of Borton, but he chose the latter, and I think his judgment will be vindicated as soon as Borton begins to bat, as I know he can. Zeider is a wonderful inside player. If Comiskey had his own way, Zeider would not have left the White Sox, but there was friction between Zeider and Callahan, and the manager carried his point.

"The Athletics seem to be making a runaway race, but baseball is very uncertain, and Connie Mack tells me that it isn't the strength of his players, but the opposition, that has put his team way in front."

After discussing the baseball outlook, Johnson switched his tactics and took a wallop at the baseball authors and those wanting federal investigation of the national pastime.

"If an investigation is attempted it will find us ready," began the league president. "In fact, we have always been ready, for we have nothing to conceal. But personally I don't believe congress will take action. If the lawmakers mean business they ought to begin now instead of talking so much.

"Horace Fogel is the only one appearing anxious for an inquiry, and if he has any evidence I am not aware of it."

What has the national commission done about ball player authors?" Johnson was asked.

"The American league has suppressed them," was the prompt reply, "and I understand that President Lynch has had some correspondence with President Hempstead, of the Giants, regarding the articles purporting to be written by McGraw, Mathewson, Marquard and Meyers.

"If these players are not prevented from doing further newspaper work you can say that the commission will take a hand with some new legislation. That may not happen until late in the year, however, but one thing is certain, ball players who pose as reporters will be barred from the press box during the world's series."

Alperman Led Club Hitters

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 4.—Official averages for the Waycross team of the Empire State league for the first half of the season show that Alperman, a brother of the Atlanta southern league manager, is leading the team in stick work. For the 17 games in which Alperman has worked with Waycross he rapped out an average of .298, getting 20 hits out of 97 trips to the plate. He has only two errors charged up to him which is below the average for players in this circuit. Next to Alperman is Fenton, center fielder, who is batting .283 for the first half. Fenton played in 48 games, made 18 runs, got 49 hits, 124 putouts, seven assists and three errors.

Anderson, the Douglas, Ga., member of the team, has climbed in batting recently, having an average of .277. He is improving with every game and by the end of the season will undoubtedly be among the leaders in the league batting. Wild Bill Clark, the new manager, proposes to strengthen the weak places on the team without delay and has strings out now for a few players who will aid Waycross materially in getting in trim for the pennant race. Fans here are confident now that the pennant contest at the close of the season will be between Waycross and Valdosta, old-time rivals on the diamond, and incidentally the two best drawing members of the Empire league in the point of attendance.

Leo Handy, national intercholastic swimming champion and the winner of many of Brookline, (Mass.) championships, has been appointed an instructor in swimming of the Boy Scouts. He will be stationed at Ponkapoag, near Boston.

Big Changes Coming Fast In All Races

Climb of Giants and Billikens Main Surprises — Crackers Are Now Going Strong and Should Go Bit Higher

The Southern league race is threatening to become just as changeable as that now being waged in the National and the changes won't be long in taking place.

During the past week the Philadelphia Nationals have been displaced from first place by the New York Giants with Brooklyn holding tightly to third place. The displacing of the Phillies came as the result of a four-game series with the Giants in which the New Yorkers won every game, the McGraw outfit now enjoying a lead of four games over their rivals.

*In the American league there is noth*ing to it but the Mackmen. The Philadelphia squad is marching right through the league, and barring unforseen injuries, should win in a walk.

With the slump of the Mobile Gulls and the unexpected spurt of the Montgomery outfit the Southern league race is tightening up just a bit. Montgomery is now one game back of the Gulls, Atlanta jumped to a tie for third place by reason of four successive wins, while the Chattanooga Club was losing three to the Montgomery bunch. Atlanta is now two and one-half games back of Montgomery and moving fast.

One of the biggest events of the past two weeks has been the spurt of the Birmingham club. This bunch has climbed from seventh to fifth place and right now is hitting on the heels of the Lookouts and Crackers. The Molesworth gang is just three games back of the first division, and with continued good work will be in select company very shortly.

All the Atlanta club has to do to keep right in the running and gradually jump nearer first place is to 'play the game as they have been turning it out for the past few days. The team has been hitting in its real form while the hurlers were working unusually well. A combination of this kind of work is all that it will take to put the bunch where it belongs.

Golfers in Big Tourney

Scores of golfers hurried to the East Lake course Friday evening to qualify for the president's cup, which is the next tournament to be played. Five flights are to be filled in this tournament, and with a cup offered the winner in each, it is likely that each flight will be filled.

Enthusiasm in golf is right now at fever heat, and more members of the club are playing than ever in the history of the club. The course is one of the few cool spots around the city, and late each afternoon the links are filled with players. Flights are to qualify from scratch, and there will be a bunch of good scores turned in.

Georgia Titles To Atlantians

The Georgia state tennis championships in men's doubles was decided Thursday afternoon on the courts of the Piedmont Driving club, when Byron M. Grant and Nat Thornton defeated the present holders of the championship by the scores 6-4, 11-9, 7-5.

Grant and Thornton quickly won the first game played when the match was resumed with the score seven all, at which point the match was interrupted two weeks ago by rain.

STARS OF ONE DAY

Suggs pitched against the Chicago team Thursday and won his ten times.

Jimmy Archer was up four times and hit twice.

Al Bridwell scored one of Chicago's runs and got two hits out of four at bats.

Johnston, of Cleveland, played a perfect fielding game and rapped out one safety in three trips.

Derrill Pratt made three trips to the plate an dropped out one hit.

Steve Yerkes in the fifteen-inning game with Washington was at bat seven times without hitting.

Tris Speaker was at bat six times and batted .500.

Ed Sweeney was at bat three times, with no results.

Dixon was one of the pitchers slaughtered by the Dodgers yesterday.

Hub Perdue was sent in to stop the slaughter of the Braves, but fared no better than Dickson. Both of these pitchers got one hit out of three trials.

Stengel was up three times and got one hit.

Daubert was up four times and got two hits.

Red mith is credited with a perfect fielding game and with one hit out of five at bats.

Wagner, who pitched the latter part of the game for Brooklyn, got three out of four hits.

BROWNS LIABLE TO KICK ON PEL-BILLIKIN DEAL

The deal between the New Orleans and Montgomery clubs whereby Bagby and Kutina went to New Orleans in exchange for Snedecor and $750 has not yet been closed. Kutina having refused to report to the Pel club. This deal has caused a bunch of talk in S. L. baseball circles, the Montgomery club backing down after agreeing upon the trade, and President Kavanaugh forcing it through.

Bagby is now with the Pel club and playing first base; while Snedecor is playing first base for John Dobbs. Kutina is yet holding out, but will likely come around all right.

It is expected that the St. Louis Browns and Montgomery will get in quite a fracas regarding the transfer of Kutina to New Orleans. According to inside information, Kutina belonged to the Brown club, and was sent to Montgomery under optional agreement, all of which makes it wrong for the Billikens to sell him. With his optional reverting to Montgomery the Browns retained the right to take first choice of any player on the Montgomery club, and as Bagby is about the most likely looking member, the Browns can here raise a kick. As yet the Brown management has raised no protest, but one is expected.

Favor Carter To Win Title On the Court

Carl Ramspeck and Ed Carter, Both of Atlanta, Meet in Final Math—Atlanta Double Team in Running

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 4.—Thursday afternoon's play brought the singles in the South Atlantic tennis tournament to the final round. In perfect concord with this hope, two Atlanta men won these coveted honors, and Friday will witness a fight for the right to challenge Nat Thornton between Ed Carter and Carl Ramspeck. Carter is looked upon as a sure winner, but Ramspeck has been playing some of the best tennis seen on the Augusta courts, and the match will be a good one.

Jake Orr lost his match to Irving by dropping the deciding set Thursday morning 6-3. Irving's hard drives and fast net work were the direct cause of his winning. Orr put up a good defensive game and managed to get a set from the college star. The final scores were: 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

When took Irving's measure in the semi-finals round, winning in straight sets 6-3, 6-4. Carter's fast net work and volleying was most to much and his "gets" were brilliant and unexpected. Carter was also serving better than he has been during the tournament.

Lloyd Parks pushed Gary to a three-set match, but the Augusta star was too much for him, and won 6-2, 4-6, 6-1. Parks has put up a splendid game of tennis during the week, and his work against Gary has been good. Two Atlanta teams met defeat in the doubles at the hands of the Waring brothers, Carter and Griffith losing 6-3, 6-3, and Hall and Parks dropped their match 6-1, 6-3.

This left Orr and Ramspeck as Atlanta's last bet in the doubles, but the two fans here are playing makes the bet a safe one.

In the consolation singles Matthews won from Harper 6-2, 6-3. Wilson, also an Atlanta man, in the consolation, did not play his match.

Motordrome Races Friday Night---Records Are Likely to Go

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

DOOIN'S REJOINDER.

They may best me to the pennant;
They may knock my pitchers out;
They may chase me down the highway
With my bally clan in rout;
But it's cheerful stuff to ponder
In the thick of all attacks
That I'll never have to grapple
With that club of Connie Mack's.

They say my club is finished,
That I'm on the chutes for fair;
They say the flag is vanished
With my outfit in the air;
But when autumn's sun comes slanting
Down upon our weary backs,
We can rest and watch the others
Up against that club of Mack's

It was a noticeable fact that when the Giants took the lead earlier in the week, Mr. Baker, then playing at the polo grounds against the Yanks, began immediately to focus his sight towards the right field stands. He evidently expected some Giant pitcher to "discover his weakness" again and he merely desired to be in touch with the proper groove extending from the plate to the spot where he pumped one before.

QUITE A THOUGHT.

At that it must be something of a morose thought for any National league club to figure that the paths of pennant winning can only lead up against the Athletics. What does it profit a bloke to gain the whole flag and then bump up against Collins, Baker, McInnis, Bender, Plank and ten or twelve others of about the same ilk?

"Morose thought" appears to be correctly put.

SERVING YOUTH.

"Youth," they say, "must be served." Quite true. The two veteran pitchers of the game now are Mathewson and Plank. Plank has only won 13 and dropped 2 and Mathewson has only won 13 and dropped 4. Between them out of 32 starts this pair have only won 26 and dropped 46 for the moth-eaten average of only .780 or so.

SLIPPING IT TO THE DOPE.

It's an easy game to figure out. The Dodgers stop the Giants and win 4 out of 5 from the Phillies.

Phillies and Giants win 9 out of 10 from Boston. At which Boston meets Brooklyn with Rucker pitching and only win by the margin of 9 to 1. Yet they ask us in February who will win the next world's series.

FOR THE 100TH AND LAST TIME.

Reader—If one game is played on a certain date, that game is the regular game. If two games are played, the first is the regular game and the second is the postponed battle. Kindly save postage in relaying this query again. Our space isn't valuable and neither is our time, but enough of a thing is entirely sufficient.

A QUERY ON OUR OWN HOOK.

The Giants, last July 4th were 16 games in front of Pirates and Cubs. The Giants may not be as good as they were a year ago, but are the Cubs and Pirates?

THE SOUTHPAW SITUATION.

"Which" some one recently, "is the greatest southpaw—Rucker or Plank?"

There are several ways of answering this query indirectly. One of them being about this—Will Rucker in his 39th year be able to win 13 of his first 15 starts?

ON BEING PRESIDENT.

When he misses a putt
He says "Tut—tut"—
Or sighs when the hill won't sink;
Gee, but I'm glad
When my game goes bad
I can say just what I think.
(From "The Doggerels of a Duffer.")

Crackers Tie Pels in A. M.

Thousands of fans swarmed to Ponce park the morning of the fourth to see the Crackers and the Pels tie up in a 5-2 game which was called at the end of the tenth inning by Umpire Rudderham, in order that the bugs might hie them home to watermelon and the players might rest up for the afternoon fracas, which starts at 4 o'clock.

Pitcher Elliott Dent was on the mound for the Crackers in the morning affair and hurled a classy article of ball, giving up a half-a-dozen or so hits. Brenan opposed him and was touched for even a fewer number of bingles than the Cracker hurler.

In the eighth the Pels almost stowed the game away. They filled the bags with but two down, but when Cholli, Frank sent a pinch hitter to the pag Dent fanned the young rascal.

The two teams will play a double-header Saturday, making four game in two days.

Seven-Year-Old Boy Admits He Drowned Eight-Year-Old Pal

CHICAGO, July 4.—Harold Fraser, seven years old, last night admitted that he had pushed George Hammer, his eight-year-old playmate, into the river last Tuesday. Harold made his confession seated on the knee of Police Lieutenant Heidelmeier, while a piece of watermelon served to keep back his tears.

"I pushed George into the river after he had thrown my wagon in," he said. The boy previously had told three other stories since the disappearance of his playmate.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION IS URGED BY TEACHERS

Coweta Teachers Also Ask Assurance of More Prompt Payment

The teachers of Coweta county, assembled in their annual convention at Newnon, have adopted the following resolutions, requesting the legislature to pass laws which will assure the teachers of Georgia of being paid promptly in the future, and to adopt a compulsory education law. The resolutions follow:

Newnan, Ga., July 1, 1913.

Whereas, the necessity of the proper standards of education in Georgia rests heavily upon tax payers, patrons and teachers, and whereas, the burdens of the teachers are continually being made heavier by the failure of the state to pay her appropriations for school purposes promptly, being from ten to fifteen months behind in the payment of the teachers; and whereas, many people in the state ar neglecting to send hundreds of children of school age to school at all; and whereas, the child labor laws are being too carelessly enforced;

Therefore, we, the teachers of Coweta county, now assembled in annual institute, do petition the legislature now in session to pass laws as follows:

First. That the teachers may be paid promptly in the future.

Second. That a constitutional amendment be passed and submitted to the people, which will authorize suitable and adequate tax for common and public school purposes exclusively.

Third. That a compulsory school attendance law be enacted which shall require all normal children between the ages of six and thirteen years of age to be placed in school for three consecutive scholastic months each year.

Fourth. That children under fourteen years of age be prevented from working in cotton factories and other commercial establishments.

154 Peasants Burned to Death

ST. PETERSBURG, July 4.—One hundred and fifty-four peasants were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed the village of Astradamovkae, in the district of Alatyr, according to a dispatch in the Novoevramya.

MAYOR WOODWARD WORKS ON "GLORIOUS FOURTH"

Spends Most of the Day in Official Duties Connected With His Office

Mayor Woodward spent the Fourth of July in the discharge of the duties of his office, while the other departments of the city were taking a holiday.

In the morning he delivered an address of welcome to the Georgia R. F. D. carriers at the state capitol, and from there went to the city hall, climbed thrree flights of stairs, and proceeded to go through the mail on his desk.

At 12 o'clock he attended a meeting of the board of health, and during the afternoon he will go over some council papers and attend to other odds and ends of official business.

PIEDMONT LODGE HOLDS ANNIVERSARY BANQUET

Members of Piedmont lodge, No. 190, celebrated the tenth anniversary at a "boosters' club banquet" at Durand's cafe Thursday evening, and a number of interesting speeches were heard.

A feature of the celebration was the presentation of a gold medal to R. J. Winters for bringing the most applications to the lodge. The medal was presented by Past Grand Master Coleman, and Mr. Winters made a happy speech of acceptance.

Grand Master J. C. Williams presided as toastmaster, and among the speakers were Past Grand Master John A. Hynds, Deputy Grand Master Sloan, Grand Guard Bohnefeurer, M. P. Strickland, Dr. L. M. White, A. G. Sanders and others.

ATHLETIC CLUB TEAM WINS PIEDMONT MEET

Big Crowd Witnesses Atlanta's First Track and Field Meet at Piedmont

Before an enthusistic crowd of sport lovers, Atlanta's first track and field, planned to be an annual affair, was held at Piedmont Park Friday morning. With clean-cut victories in the majority of events the team of the Atlanta Athletic club carried off the trophy cup offered by the Georgia Railway and Electric company with 44 points. The Independents finished second with 17 points, the Fifth regiment third with 11 points, and the S. V. D. club fourth with 8 points.

Joe Bean, director of the Athletic club, promoter of the meet, expressed himself as highly pleased with the outcome and promised a more closely contested affair for next year.

Good times were made in the most events.

The results were:

Trade Board Meets

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 4.—A special meeting of the Columbus Board of Trade was held last night when members of the organization in an informal way met the new secretary, William B. Hall, who has recently taken up work as general secretary of the organization. The attendance was quite large and the meeting proved a success in every particular.

Smith Is Lost To Crackers

Clarence Smith will not, after all, wear a Cracker uniform, unless the unforeseen happens. The owner of the White Sox has reneged on the deal, and the local club received a wire from Comiskey calling off the deal Thursday morning.

Smith was offered to Atlanta for $2,000 under an optional agreement, and the local club accepted. Smith, however, worked the last four innings against Detroit on Wednesday and got away with only one dent in his delivery.

Whereby hangs the tale.

Comiskey has decided to hold on a while ,and it is probable that some one else will be sent by the Sox instead of the ex-Baron star.

Eagle Scout Honor For a Forsyth Boy

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

FORSYTH, Ga., July 4.—Under the leadership of Scout Master R. M. Dixon and Assistant Scout Master C. F. Stuart, Forsyth troop, No. 1, of Boy Scouts, will leave Monday morning for Cogean's Ferry, about ten miles from Forsyth, where they will go into camp for a week. Wagons will carry the rations, tents and other equipage, but the boys will hike the entire distances themselves.

The troop is composed of five patrols —Beaver, Buffalo, Hawk, Eagle and Tiger—and each patrol is expected to be well represented. About forty boys will go on the outing.

Application has been made to the national headquarters for an Eagle scout for Sewell Dixon. Scout Dixon is the fifth boy in Georgia to qualify for this high rank; indeed there are only five Eagle scouts in Georgia and all are from Forsyth.

EIGHT BARRELS O FBEER ARE COPPED IN RAID

Eight barrels of moonshine beer were brought into the office of the county police Friday morning, the result of a raid in Bryant's district, near the line between Fulton and Campbell counties.

The county officers and the revenue men found the beer in a gully, near a deep well. The moonshiners had been using the latter to get the water for their work. The still had evidently been in full blast up to a few minutes before the raiders arrived on the scene, at 10 o'clock Friday morning, but the moonshiners had managed to get away.

The party which made the raid was six in number, headed by Assistant Chief George Mattleson and Lieutenant Oliver.

Effective Sunday, May 25. Popular excursions to Warm Springs via A., B. & A. Only $1.00 round trip. Train leaves Union Station 8:00 a. m. Delightful outing.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 4.—The cotton market has been unsettled during the past week, owing to continued nervousness over the near month situation, disturbing political developments at home and abroad, uncertainty as to the showing of the government report, which was published at noon today, and the restraining influence on fresh business of the three-day adjournment. Under these conditions, trading is supposed to have been more largely in the way of reducing commitments than of undertaking fresh ventures, particularly toward the close of the week, when there was a tendency to await fresh developments, not only with reference to supply and demand conditions, but in respect to the proposed tax on trading in futures by Washington legislation.

The stopping of city notices has been followed by reports that International houses are preparing to ship at least 20,000 bales from the local stock during the current month, of which nearly 4,000 bales have already been withdrawn from the certified supply and it is rumored that these operators are with a view to strengthening a straddle position between New York and Liverpool extending into the early months. Such reports concerning the local stock are regarded as conducing to the near month situation, while many conflicting views are also expressed regarding the new crop outlook. The government report on the crop condition 81.8 and placing the acreage planted at 35,622,000 suggested a good improvement in the plant during June, but the area fell slightly under bearish views and the action of the market following its publication suggested that it had failed to inspire much fresh sentiment. Bullishly disposed traders say there is room in the start on the area, to insure a supply commensurate with modern ideas of requirements, especially in view of the prevalence of boll weevil. On the other hand, prevailing weather conditions are considered favorable, and bears predict a continued improvement, bringing the August condition up to a still more favorable comparison with the ten-year average.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

Bradstreet's state of trade Saturday will say:

The widespread hot wave and the approach of the mid-year holidays have stimulated retail trade in light summer fabrics and furnishings, but made for quiet in most wholesale and industrial lines, the latter in most cases arranging for a three-day suspension of operations. The result is a somewhat irregular week; closing a half year which, while not fulfilling sanguine expectations, has proved better than fears, bred of tariff revision and world-wide tight money, led most observers to predict.

Most measures of trade volume and progress make satisfactory comparisons with a year ago, a period of political excitement and hesitating trade. Bank clearings for June and the six months show fractional gains over last year. There were fewer failures in June than in any month for two years past, and the six months aggregate is below that of 1912, although a few large failures have swelled liabilities above last year.

The really new features of the week are mainly favorable, chief of these being the breaking of an extremely hot wave which destroyed fire and imperiled crops; the resumption of pig iron buying on a scale not seen for months past, albeit at the expense of prices; the largest sales of raw wool reported for a long time past, likewise at low quotations; the advent of much needed moisture in the corn and spring wheat areas; the assurance of a record winter wheat crop and the planting of a record area in cotton.

The unfavorable features are the practical realization that yields of oats and hay, next to corn, the chief animal foods, will be heavily short of last year; the shading of estimates of spring wheat yields; the slowing down of building following a period of gains for six months at a majority of cities over a year ago, and the projection into the domain of probability of some new labor disturbances or lockouts, involving large numbers of men at Chicago and Cincinnati.

Wheat, including flour exports, from the United States and for the week ending July 2, aggregate 3,503,523 bushels against 4,001,-523 bushels last week and 2,965,538 bushels this week last year. For the fifty-three weeks ending July 2 exports are 246,162,318 bushels, against 175,389,587 bushels in the corresponding period last year. Corn exports for the week are 139,434 bushels, against 82,351 bushels last week and 83,272 bushels in 1912. For the fifty-three weeks ending July 2 corn exports are 39,566,554 bushels, against 33,464,511 bushels last year.

June failures were the smallest in number in any month for two years and liabilities were the lightest since November.

Saving and Investing

Railroad Bonds—The "Frisco Case."

BY JOHN M. OSKISON

Since the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad company went into the hands of receivers the other day the papers have been printing the calls of various "protective committees" to the holders of the road's bonds to get together. The stockholders, under the receivership, no longer have control, for, when the interest return on borrowed money is defaulted, the property becomes the assets of the money lenders. That it is necessary to inspect closely bonds offered for general investment is admirably illustrated in the case of the "Frisco." Against the road there is outstanding over $300,000,000 of bonds and notes, divided among ten or more issues. Two of the big issues were over $68,000,000 of refunding general 4 per cent bonds, which are due in 1951, and nearly $63,000,000 of general 5s per cent bonds, due in 1927. It is probable that the 4 per cent bonds were sold to investors at about $1,000 each or par, and the same was true of the 5s. On the morning of June 16, this year, the 4 per cent bonds were quoted at $665 each, and the 5s were worth on the New York stock exchange $572.50 each.

On the same day St. Louis and San Francisco railway general 5 per cent bonds, due in 1931, were quoted as worth $30 each, while the 6s of the same title, and due at the same date, were quoted at $1,050 each. Any owner of investible money can figure the difference in value between the various issues.

What is the explanation?

Those bonds, which, in spite of the receivership, are selling for $930 and $1,050 each, are known as "underlying" bonds. They were issued by the old "Frisco" road previous to a reorganization in comparatively small amounts, and they must be paid (and interest payments must be provided on them) before the holders of the big issues are entitled to their principal and interest.

In buying the bonds of railroad and other corporations it is essential to find out the standing of the particular issue at the time of purchase. As a matter of course, these bonds which have the first claim are the safest to buy.

Good to choice steers, 1,000 to 1,200; $5.50@6.50.

Good steers, 800 to 1,000, $5.25@6.00.

Medium to good steers, 700 to 850, $5.00@5.50.

Good to choice beef cows, 800 to 900, $4.50@5.00.

Medium to good cows, 700 to 800, $4.25@5.00.

Good to choice heifers, 750 to 850, $4.75@5.25.

Medium to good heifers, 650 to 750, $4.00@4.50.

The above represents ruling prices of good quality of beef cattle. Inferior grades and dairy types selling lower.

Good to choice steers, if fat, 800 to 900, $4.00@5.00.

Medium to common cows, if fat, 700 to 800, $3.75@4.25.

Mixed common, 600 to 800, $3.25@3.75.

Good butcher bulls, $3.50@4.00.

Prime hogs, 160 to 200, $8.50@8.80.

Good butcher hogs, 140 to 160, $8.40@8.50.

Good butcher pigs, 100 to 140, $8.25@8.50.

Light pigs, 80 to 100, $7.75@8.00.

Above quotations apply to corn-fed hogs. Most supply about equal to the demand.

Cattle receipts increasing with the larger supply of grass stock. Good kinds scarce and reasonably strong, while the bulk coming in of only medium quality and in only ordinary flesh which are considered generally as undesirable killers, and while the prices have ranged lower, the quality is considerably below that of the beef coming three weeks ago. The demand has been light for the past several days, which together with the glut of cattle has caused a decreased the market and values are probably a full quarter lower on medium and a half lower on common grades than a week ago.

Tennessee sheep and lambs are plentiful and the extreme prices of two weeks ago have been lowered by about 1c pr pound.

Hog supply about equal to the demand. The yards are kept cleaned up form day to day. Several loads of extra choice packers were among the week's receipts and brought top prices. Market steady.

HESTER'S COTTON STATEMENT

NEW ORLEANS, July 4.—Secretary Hester's New Orleans Cotton Exchange statement, issued today, covers the monthly movement to the close of June.

Compared with last year it shows a decrease for the month in round figures of 27,000 bales, compared with year before last an increase of 6,000, and with 1910 a decrease of 59,000.

The total for June was 144,374 bales, against 171,045 last year, 138,171 year before last and 203,750 same time in 1910.

The movement from September 1 to close of June inclusive, shows receipts at all United States ports 9,099,284 bales, against 11,875,260 last year, 8,824,033 year before last and 7,-109,885 same time in 1910; overland across the Mississipi, Ohio and Potomac rivers to northern mills and Canada 958,587, against 1,238,522 last year, 920,743 year before last and 788,561 same time in 1910; southern mills takings, exclusive of quantity consumed at southern out-ports 2,666,000, against 2,388,500 last year, 2,141,000 year before last and 2,003,000 same time in 1910; and interior stocks in excess of those held at the close of the corresponding year 135,472, against 70,807 last year, 60,895 year before last and 90,658 same time in 1910.

These make the total movement of the cotton crop brought into sight during the ten months ending at the close of June 13,587,849 bales, against 15,573,125 last year, 11,947,271 year before last and 10,142,044 same time in 1910.

Northern spinners took during June 57,084 bales, against 64,219 last year and 40,417 year before, increasing their total for the ten months to 2,238,695, against 2,071,821 last year and 2,053,918 the year before. This makes their average weekly takings for the season 53,104, against 51,725 last year, and 47,400 the year before.

Foreign exports for the ten months of the season have been 8,820,706 bales, showing a decrease under last season of 1,912,269 and an increase over the same period year before last of 971,244.

Stocks at the seaboard and the 29 leading southern interior markets at the close of June are 448,81, against 496,702 the same date last year, and 309,357 the year before.

Including port and interior town stocks left over from the previous season and the number of bales of the current crop brought to sight during the ten months, the supply has been 13,782,086, against 15,990,099 last year and 11,895,233 the year before.

Up to the close of June last year 96 50-100 per cent of the cotton crop had been marketed and for the ten months in 1911 the percentage of the crop brought into sight was 96 10-100; for the same time in 1910 the percentage marketed was 95 00-100.

The amount of the crop brought into sight for the ten months from September to June inclusive, is 2,186,090 bales behind last year, 1,740,000 ahead of the year before and 3,345,086 ahead of 1910.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Turkey Raising

TURKEY raising is something that the ladies and the children of the farm can easily do and look after that will bring them in a large per cent of profit at the end of the year. I especially know of several families who have been started on the road to prosperity and the children enabled to have advantages and secure an education through their mothers raising several flocks if turkeys, and had it not been for these turkeys this state of affairs could have never existed. Three families that I have in mind have enjoyed the benefits derived from a small investment in turkeys. The good part about it is when you are successful and raise fifty to two hundred head of turkeys is one season when they are marketed Thanksgiving or Christmas they bring a good pile of money. It takes a great many chickens and eggs to bring in as much revenue as one hundred head of turkeys will bring. When the Bronze variety of turkeys is used they grow to immense size and as they are usually sold by the pound an ordinary turkey sells usually from $2.50 to $6.00 per head. You can readily see how much cash a person will have when they market twenty or more turkeys, and this money coming all in a lump looks like you are doing something. For instance, I know of one lady who in one season sold more than $160 worth of turkeys raised from four hens, and I am conident this lady never before in all her life had more than $50 at one time. This money that she received from these turkeys put new life and energy not only in her but her husband and children as well, and it made them see things differently from what they had ever seen them before, and I don't suppose that this amount of money ever did many families more good than this turkey money did this family.

Years ago this country was bountifully supplied with turkeys and there is no reason why it should not be again. By selecting good, strong, vigorous stock and by using two and three-year-old hens with a young male bird and being careful not to inbreed too closely the offspring will be strong and vigorous, and it is not one-half the trouble to succeed and raise a large flock of turkeys as many people imagine, especially if they are careful about selecting their breeders and giving the young ones attention during the first four or five weeks of their lives. One of the great troubles that has always been with turkey raising, especially during the past fifteen years has been the scarcity of feed and so much of our acres in Georgia being kept clean by cotton culture has not made feed available, therefore, lots of people who are inclined to keep turkeys have not done so on this account. But, as the people are changing and cultivating more corn and grasses in this country these things are being overcome and from present indications for years to come a more bountiful supply of food is in sight suited to turkey growing there is no reason why more attention should not be paid to this industry hereafter and get our country stocked with turkeys again.

There is one town alone in Texas that usually sells several hundred thousands dollars' worth of turkeys per year and the turkey crop in this section is looked upon with as much interest as the cotton or fruit crop in some sections of of Georgia. In our sister state Tennessee during the past winter there was shipped out of Nashville several thousand dollars' worth of turkeys, and the good part of it was it brought money to that of the large eastern cities back to Morristown, and it was distributed among the farmers of the surrounding country, which did this section a world of good. The people in the large cities have to live. A large part of them can afford something extra and are people who buy turkey not only for Thanksgiving and Christmas but for many other meals during the year, and the people who produce these products always find a ready market for them, and it is no trouble to get the cash for these products from people who can afford it when we have turkeys to convert into, this cash asset. Georgia could just as well as not ship as many thousand dollars' worth of turkeys to the east as we do of peaches and melons, and a little encouragement and agitation of this line of work through the county papers and the large city dailies and agricultural papers of the country could have a great influence in bringing about more interest and attention to this industry, and is one thing our people should think of and try to encourage more than we have ever before. This would be a side issue and practically a pickup to hundreds of people and would be a great help, and right now while our state has a large turkey crop would be the time to try and persuade the people who have not turkeys to buy some another season and get themselves in a position so that they will have a start next year. It seems to be a little thing but it would mean the saving and producing of millions of dollars to our state if we would give it the attention we should.

Yours very truly,

THE COOL SPIN Out into the paved, shaded roads of the county, in a car of your own, will be not such a far-off dream if you see how low a serviceable car is priced under "AUTOMOBILES" . . . . . .

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

MEDIUM SIZED ACRE-AGE TRACTS.

ALL OF US know the profit that is usually made from acreage. It is almost a conceded fact that if a person owns good acreage, he has a sure profit in it sooner or later.

When we think of acreage propositions, we think of lots of land, and naturally lots of money, because the usual acreage transaction requires a great deal of money.

The demand for good, close-in acreage for subdivision purposes is increasing every day. A note to the outskirts of the city in any direction you choose to take will convince you of this fact.

We are going to offer a tract of about 30 acres, between Decatur and East Lake, which we have cut up into five, ten and fifteen-acre tracts. The price and terms on these tracts makes it possible for almost anyone to handle them.

Fourth of July Picnics Popular; All Atlanta Turns to Woods and Sport Fields for Day's Pleasure

"Gone fishing."

Atlanta might have hung that sign on its door Friday morning as it would have sufficed to cover a variegated celebration of the same old Glorious Fourth.

Statistically it was the one hundred and thirty-seventh anniversary of the nation's birth.

Otherwise, it was a hot old Fourth, with the cool woods calling and the fish begging for a bite, and something doing everywhere.

Picnics? There were a multitude. There was the picnic of the Scots, at the Boys' cottage. There was the Turn Verein picnic at Germania park. There were others in unknown numbers. One could flush a picnic in any part of any of the parks and in almost any cool spot near a Fulton county spring.

Barbecues? There were those, too. The Battle Hill sanitarium spread one—its second annual feast. Others might have been found. All Georgia was enjoying barbecue, moreover. If one chose to leave the city for the day, the certainty was that he would bump into a barbecue and a speech-making somewhere.

NO SPEECHES FOR FOURTH.

Atlanta was shy on Fourth of July speeches, but on nothing else. There was noise and plenty of it, despite the heat. Firecrackers popped throughout th day and throughout the town; and the coming of night was expected to reveal the heavens brilliant with skyrockets and roman candles and other pyrotechnics.

Regardless of the regular oldtime typical Fourth of July heat again there were athletic events in plenty. At 10 o'clock in the morning the big program of field day events began at Piedmont Park, with lots of entrants and plenty of enthusiasm. There were innumerable amateur games, both morning and afternoon—everywhere. There were the professional Atlanta-New Orleans games scheduled for the morning and afternoon, with thousands planning to see them.

There was bowling in several of the clubs, and swimming in all of the lakes, and fishing in the river and elsewhere. A fine fast card of motorcycle races was scheduled at the Price drome on Jackson street for the evening. The movies and the vaudeville theatres were busy and crowded.

STAYING HOME POPULAR.

And then, too, there was the great indoor sport of being lazy and cool at home. Thousands of idle citizens indulged in that.

The kids had their inning, with fireworks. The police did not interfere if parents were willing to let their children take the usual risk. Chief Beavers, for lack of the yearly order from the mayor permitting fireworks in yards, approached the situation from another angle this year. He gave forth to permit no fireworks in the streets—thereby implying that they might be permitted upon private premises. No firearms were to be discharged anywhere, said the chief. The police maintained a double watch from 8 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock at night, each of the three shifts doing twelve hours' duty instead of the usual eight hours' duty. This did not indicate that the police expected trouble; merely it was their own time-honored custom of celebrating the day.

RURAL CARRIERS MEET IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Members of Association of Georgia Rural Mail Men Meet for Tenth Time

In accordance with their custom of meeting on Independence day, 150 members of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers' association assembled in the New Kimball Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock for their tenth annual convention.

The delegates from all parts of the state began to gather Thursday evening, and at 8:30 p. m. held a social and fraternal meeting in the ball room of the hotel. The first business session, however, began Friday morning, and will continue through Saturday morning.

When the convention was called to order by President L. D. King, of Covington, the hall was filled with rural carriers.

Following the singing of "America," all standing, the welcoming address to the city of Atlanta was delivered by Mayor James G. Woodward, who commended them for the success of their organization and urged them to further their interests by strengthening the association from year to year.

The response to the welcome was delivered by Fred L. White, of Buckhead, chairman of the committee on resolutions. He expressed the full appreciation of the association for the cordiality of the mayor's words, assuring him that every one of them could not help but feel at home after such a fraternal greeting.

CONGRESSMAN HARDWICK SPEAKS.

A storm of applause greeted Congressman Thomas W. Hardwick, of the Tenth congressional district, when a committee, especially appointed for the purpose, escorted him to the speaker's stand. Mr. Hardwick is no stranger to the carriers. He has addressed them on many former occasions and being present with them Friday, was but in keeping with the program of many past conventions.

The speaker expressed his peasure at being able to be with them once more and declared that he was delighted to see how the organization had grown during the past few years. He commended them for the strength and value of the association to others as well as to themselves, and expressed the hope that it would grow with the years to come as it has grown in the past.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED.

Following the address of Mr. Hardwick, the president announced the personnel of three committees that he has decided upon thus far. They are: Credentials, J. H. Williams of Atlanta, chairman; J. R. Lumkin of Rome; J. A. Hickman of Barnesville, and F. A. Jones of Tallapoosa. Resolutions: Fred L. White of Buckhead, chairman; George DeBrosse of Statesboro and Payne of Tallapoosa. Constitution and by-laws: S. C. Cartledge of Athens, chairman; E. S. Hardy of Rome, and J. J. Dickinson of Valdosta.

The officers of the association are, L. D. King of Covington, president; George M. Gammage of Bronwood, vice president, and George C. Bond of Elberton, secretary and treasurer.

An afternoon session will be held at which committee reports will be heard. Saturday morning the convention will be addressed by Governor John M. Slaton and W. D. Brown, editor of the Rural Free Delivery News, of Washington, D. C.

Catholics Who Persist In Dancing Tango Can Not Hope For Absolution, Says Bishop

Chicago Mayor Pays Visit to Tenderloin; Dives Lose Permits

(By Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 4.—Bishop Thomas S. Byrne, head of the Catholic church in Tennessee, explaining the announcement Sunday in Catholic churches that those who persisted in indulging in dances known as the "tango," the "turkey trot," and others of a similar character, cannot be absolved in the tribunal of the sacrament of penance, gave out a statement last night in which he said:

"By well instructed Catholics these principles are clearly understood, as they are also by the children in our schools, and I only feel it necessary to request the priests of the diocese to call their attention to them in reference to these vile dance and to warn both young and old that if they took part in them, it would be useless for them to go to confession in the hope of obtaining absolution, for should any priest be so indiscreet as to attempt to absolve such a person, the absolution would be worthless and the confession would bring a curse rather than a blessing.

CHICAGO, July 4.—Seventeen saloon licenses in what formerly was the south side segregated district have been revoked by Mayor Harrison. This was the result of an unannounced stroll taken by the mayor one night recently through the district. The police repeatedly had reported the locality cleaned up.

GOVERNOR TO SEE FIFTH AT ST. SIMONDS ISLAND

Governor Slaton's first official out-of-town trip will be taken on Friday, July 11, when he goes to St. Simons Island to inspect the Fifth—Atlanta's own regiment—in camp. The Fifth leaves for St. Simons on Tuesday.

The governor will be accompanied on this trip by former Governor Brown, Brigadier General R. G. Evans, of the United States army; Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash, Colonel F. J. Paxon, chief of staff, and a number of aides. It is expected that Mrs. Slaton, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Evans, Miss Nash and Mrs. Paxon and other ladies will be in the party.

Special Pullman cars have been reserved for the governor's party, which will leave Atlanta Friday evening and return Sunday evening. Saturday and Sunday will be spent in camp.

Mrs. X. A. Garraux Dead

Mrs. Ximenia A. Garroux, forty-three years old, died at a private sanitarium Friday morning at 5 o'clock. She is survived by her husband, Ernest Garraux, one son, E. V. Garraux, and one brother, W. M. Giles. The body was removed to H. M. Patterson & Son's chapel, and will be taken to Charlotte, N. C., for funeral and interment.

Four Boys Hurt Early in Fourth Observance

Firecrackers, Pistol and Loose Powder Send Youths to Grady Hospital

The Fourth of July started with a rush at the Grady hospital Friday morning.

By 8 o'clock four young patriots were nursing wounds received in their early celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The most serious of the early morning accidents occurred at the residence of Mrs. G. W. Garrison, 132 Davis street.

Charley Garrison, aged 11 years, and John, his brother, aged 4 years, were playing with firecrackers and some loose powder. The powder was on a saper, and when one of the boys dropped a firecracker into it there was an explosion.

The quick flash of the powder burned all of the hair off Charley Garrison's head; it singed his eyebrows and, it is feared, injured the boy's eyes. All of the skin was burned off of his face and both of his hands.

While it is possible that he will be disfigured, it is expected at the hospital that he will recover.

Little John Garrison is also under the care of the hospital physicians, but his injuries are not serious.

A third victim of the celebration was Walter Peek, colored, who was shot through the hand by a toy pistol. Lockjaw may result.

Little "O. B." Biggers, of 348 Glenn street, was the victim of the first Fourth of July accident in 1913; in fact, he was shot by a playmate while they were having a "pre-fourth" celebration Thursday evening.

"O. B." was playing in his front yard with Henry Kincannon, of 424 Central avenue, when the latter fired a blank cartridge from a toy pistol.

The wadding from the blank struck young Biggers' right leg, inflicting a painful and ugly wound. He was well enough, however, to leave the hospital Friday morning.

Speeches and Sports Mark New York's "Sanest" Fourth

NEW YORK, July 4.—New York City's celebration of Independence day, designed to be safer and saner than ever before, began at 4:30 o'clock with thirteen sunrise guns booming from Van Cortlandt park, the reading of the Declaration of Independence at historic McGowan's Pass in Central park an hour later, and the ringing of most of the city's bells for an hour between 8 and 9.

A slight abatement of the heat wave and fair skies brought out record crowds for the rest of the day's celebration, which was crowded with patriotic exercises and sporting events, notwithstanding that the exodus from the city was reported by the railway and steamship lines as the largest they had ever seen.

The official observance by Manhattan borough consisted of a great morning gathering at city hall, an unusual and interesting feature of which was the invitation extended to Dr. J. Soyeda, representing the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Japan, to join Mayor Gaynor and other city officials in making addresses.

The afternoon program was crowded with athletic meets and baseball games in practically all of the open spaces in the city. Special illumination of public buildings, memorals and parks never before attempted here was panned for the evening.

No Fireworks for Capital; Washington Quiet on Fourth

WASHINGTON, July 4.—The national capital today is to have a "fireworks-less" fouth of July because its citizens failed to loosen their purse strings sufficiently to permit the expenditure. Instead two pageants on Pennsylvania avenue, athletic contests and band contests will mark the 137th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

So parsimonious have been the citizens of Washington that the proposed illuminating of Pennsylvania avenue tonight is impossible. It is the first time in the history of the celebration of the day, according to authorities, that no night program has been arranged. The children plainly showed their disappointment. Not even the parades, in one of which 4,000 are to take part could take the place of the soaring rocket, the bursting aerial bomb and the flaming roman candle.

Strict orders have been given by the police that the exploding of fire crackers or bombs or the firing of guns, revolvers or pistols are absolutely prohibited. Even disappointed children who may transgress the police rule, under the orders will be subject to arrest. Those who are too small to be taken actually into custody, will be taken to their parents for spankings.

The principal patriotic celebration will be held in Continental hall, where the speakers will include Senator Gallinger and Mrs. William Cummings Story, president of the Daughters of The American Revolution. Neither President Wilson nor Vice President Marshall is in the city, both of them being at Gettysburg anniversary celebration.

Panamaians Gather at Colon For Big Fourth Celebration

COLON, July 4.—The canal zone planned for today the most imposing celebration of Independence day ever atempted outside of the United States. Americans from all parts of Central America came here to join in the demonstration. It was estimated that nearly 100,000 persons were in the city this morning. Special trains brought all of the canal workers, many of whom will participate in baseball games, running races and boxing contests.

The Tenth infantry, the marines and a large number of civilians participated in a parade, and tons of fireworks were on hand for the conclusion of the day's festivities.

Baseball Games to Feature Fourth of July at Forsyth

FORSYTH, July 4.—The Fourth will be observed as a holiday by the banks and business houses of Forsyth. The day will be celebrated by two ball games, one with the team from Lorane in the morning and a game with a team from the Macon Volunteers in the afternoon.

Aside from this there will be five ball games on that day between various negro teams, making seven balls games for the Fourth in Forsyth. Two rival negro barbecues and celebrations will be in progress on that day.

Chicago Quiet on Fourth; Crowds Flock to Water

CHICAGO, July 4.—The Fourth dawned in Chicago as quiet as a Sunday, giving early promise that the city's effort to establish a national record for sanity in the celebration of Independence day would be successful.

A factor for quiet was the three days of freedom from work which permitted thousands to go to the country. Outgoing boats and trains leaving after 5 o'clock last evening were filled to capacity and thousands were unable to secure accommodations.

Augusta People Seek Seashore On "Hottest" Fourth

(By Associated Press.)

AUGUSTA, July 4.—Augusta is observing the Fourth of July quietly. The day is a general holiday and hundreds of Augustans have seized upon the opportunity of going to the seashore for the Fourth and spending the week-end also.

Augusta's ball team is playing a morning and afternoon game with a crack team from Columbia.

The Augusta Gun club is having an all-day shoot at which trap shooters from throughout western South Carolina and eastern Georgia are in attendance.

Charleston, Swept by Sea Breezes, Spends Quiet Day

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 4.—With all places of business, excepting in the refreshment and amusement lines closed and public buildings shut up, Charlestonians took the fresh air way of observing the national holiday. Thousands went to the Isle of Palms for motorcycle races, surf and other amusements. Other thousands went on picnics and fishing trips. The weather is hot and clear, a smart breeze relieving the heat to some extent. Large quantities of watermelons are being consumed by the colored people. National colors are generally displayed.

Jefferson's Letters Read At Annual Park Memorial

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—The Fourth of July was celebrated here today by the reading of the Declaration of Independence at the base of the Jefferson statue at the Jefferson memorial in Forest park. An original letter of Thomas Jefferson also was read.

In the various parks the school children of the city took part in exercises.

Savannah Observes The Fourth as Holiday

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 4.—The anniversary of the birth of this country is being appropriately celebrated here today. The banks, public buildings and many of the stores are closed. Motorcycle races, baseball, rifle matches and a shoot by the Forest City Gun club are some of the events which are being held. The resorts are crowded with visitors from the city and towns in the interior of the state. Salutes were fired at daybreak by the Crusier Tacoma, now in port, by Fort Screven, and by the miniature cannon at the foundry of John Rourke.

Cotton Mill Operatives Play Baseball in Dalton

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., July 4.—The Fourth of July is being observed quietly here today; banks and a few business houses have closed and several manufacturing plants have shut down to give their employes holiday. This afternoon the Cartersville and Crown Cotton mill baseball teams will play the first of two games scheduled at the fair grounds.

Auto and Horse Races On Beach in Florida

(By Associated Press.)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 4.—Automobile and trotting races at Atlantic Beach today are the features of the celebration going on in Jacksonville and suburbs. All trains to the beach are crowded and the city itself is deserted.

Folk Dances of Children For Milwaukee's Fourth

MILWAUKEE, July 4.—Sanity and safety is marking Milwaukee's celebration of the Fourth. Parade and folk dances by children in nine city parks combined with fireworks in the evening are the program for the day.

Sane Fourth Observed In Columbia, S. C.

(By Associated Press.)

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 4.—The usual display of fireworks and the fanfiare of noise and enthusiasm was lacking in Columbia's celebration of Fourth of July today.

KISS A GIRL IF SHE DARES YOU, OFFICE RULE

WASHINGTON, July 4.—It is not wrong to kiss a pretty girl with whom you are associated in the government service, provided the aforesaid girl purses her ruby lips and utters a defi. This was laid down in the case of Frank D. Hester, a chief of section, who was accused of the osculatory diversion during office hours.

Gaylord M. Saltraber, pension commission, suspended Mr. Hester upon hearing of the affair and undertook an investigation. After unwinding many yards of red tape and going into the affair from all angles, the commissioner discovered that the young woman had "dared" Hester's evidence of affection.

Hester was therefore reinstated. Today he is back at his desk. The young woman who was a temporary clerk and whose name was carefully concealed has left the pension office service.

SENATOR SMITH PLANS FOR VISIT TO ATLANTA

Will Take Few Days Off While Republicans Examine Tariff Bill

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—Senator and Mrs. Hoke Smith will leave Washington today for Magnolia Bay, Mass., where Mrs. Smith will spend most of the summer. The senator will return to Washington Sunday, to be in attendance upon Monday's session of the senate.

The Democratic caucus yesterday concluded its consideration of the tariff bill, and it is ready to be reported to the senate. The measure, as finally perfected by the finance committee and accepted by the Democrats, provides for a more drastic and lower revision of the tariff than passed the house.

Senator Smith was in charge of the bill in the caucus yesterday, in the absence and at the request of Senator Simmons, the chairman, who was called away by the death of a grandchild.

It is the plan of the Democrats to give the Republican members of the finance committee a few days in which to examine the bill before it is finally reported to the senate. Senator Smith intends to avail himself of this delay and run down to Atlanta for a few days next week.

Degree for Wilson

(By Associated Press.)

EDINBURG, Scotland, July 4.—The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred today by the University of Edinburg on James Wilson, former secretary of agriculture of the United States.

At the same time the degree of Doctor of Science was conferred on a woman for the first time in the history of the university.

First Cotton Blooms

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., July 4.—The first cotton blooms of the season have been shown on the streets here, John Cronic, a well known farmer of the Dug Gap section bringing them in.

RHEUMATISM COMES FROM CONDITIONS WHICH CAN BE REMEDIED

But Local Applications on the Skin Cannot Get at the Cause of Your Suffering.

Just a bilious attack and a slight deposit of uric acid. Now calomel and similar mercurial purgatives do not dissolve and expel the uric acid sediment that forms from undigested, fermenting foods, and when this poisonous acid is not expelled it accumulates quickly, thickens the blood and settles in joints and muscles. The joints and muscles then become stiff.

An attempt to cure this rheumatism must be directed toward removing uric acid from blood and tissues, breaking up the crystalline urates already formed and preventing new deposits.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is remarkably successful in the treatment of rheumatism. It dissolves uric acid out of the tissues, holds it in solution and expels it in the urine. It thoroughly cleanses the system of fermentation and purifies the blood. It will give prompt relief in all cases of rheumatism resulting from uric acid poisoning.

If you are suffering with rheumatism, try JACOBS' LIVER SALT immediately. It will relieve you more promptly and surely than anything else. Don't take an inferior substitute; some closely imitate the name, but none produces the same result. Insist on the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT, 25c. If your druggist cannot supply you full size jar mailed upon receipt of price, postage free. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., Atlanta.—(Advt.)

LEGAL NOTICES.

GEORGIA, Fulton County—Aggie D. Rader, v. Frank K. Rader, Superior Court. Frank K. Rader, by order of court you are notified that on the 2nd day of June, Aggie D. Rader filed suit against you for divorce to the September term of said court. You are required to be at the September term, 1913, of said court, and file defense on Monday in September, to answer plaintiff's complaint.

Witness the Hon. J. T. Pendleton, Judge of said court, this June 2, 1913.

ARNOLD BROYLES, Clerk.

GEORGIA, Fulton County.

Notice is hereby given that on August 4th, 1913, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, the undersigned, will apply to the Judge of the superior court of Fulton county, Ga., at the court house in said county, for an order authorizing him as guardian for Richard R. Corley and Myrtice M. Corley, to sell for the purpose of reinvestment, the following property of his said wards, to-wit:

An undivided one-eighth (⅛) remainder interest each in the following real estate:

All that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the city of Atlanta, Ga., known as Number 153 Randolph street and more particularly described as follows: Beginning at a point one hundred and ten (110) feet, (by the original lines) north of the northeast corner of Randolph street and Houston street and running thence east one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet, thence north sixty-three (63) feet, thence west one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet, and thence south along the east side of Randolph street sixty-three (63) feet to the place of beginning.

The reason for making said application is that the improvements thereon are old and depreciating in value and its condition will necessitate the expenditure of considerable money to make it conform to comfortable modern residences. Said property is no longer desirable as white residence property and is rapidly depreciating as such. Said property will become more expensive continually to keep in order and in repair.

JAMES BANKS,
Guardian for Richard R. Corley and Myrtice M. Corley.
